5 RICHLAND INMATES FLEE

Escape From Workhouse Jobs at Columbus; Hunt Started By Police Here.

Five of the 12 men taken to the Columbus workhouse June 17 from Richland county to serve out fines for intoxication were being sought today by authorities after they walked away from parks, golf courses, and fields where they were working in Columbus.

Columbus police and city and county authorities here were on the lookout for the men who were expected to return to Mansfield. All of them were dressed in workhouse clothing when they disappeared.

Columbus police said the inmates may have planned the walkaway in advance and arranged to meet later.

In the group were Joseph Dever, 47, Mansfield; William Lalley, 40; Pete Ware, 39; David Pierson, 40, and Thomas Urban, 41, all transients.

They were arrested by Mansfield police about 10 days ago in a "clean up" of hobo camps in the northern section of the city. All of the men were fined $40 and $21.95 costs by Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch and ordered to serve out the fine and costs in the workhouse.

There were so many of the inmates that Sheriff Frank R. Robinson had to borrow the county engineer's station wagon to take them to Columbus.

'Armistice' Gives Rest to Soldiers In War Maneuvers

ALEXANDIA, La—(AP)—A one-day "armistice" brought rest today to 42,500 weary soliders locked in the "battle of Kisatchie forest.

The troops, from the Great Lakes states, were spread along a 30-mile front west of here after a general attack yesterday in which fifth corps "blues" pushed invading "reds" back toward the Sabine river.

The 37th Ohio division drove westerly along the south flank of the advancing "blues," hoping to turn the "red" line near Leesville. But the 37th met no resistance; the "enemy" had withdrawn.

HITS BOOST

Henderson Moves to Prevent Rise In Price of Ink Ingredient.

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Federal Price Administrator Leon Henderson moved today to prevent a 12½ percent increase in prices of carbon black, which is an important ingredient used in the rubber, paint and printing ink industries.

He sent a letter to carbon black manufacturers asking them to a conference in Washington and declared that his office takes the position that there should be no price increases at this time.

THIRD ARTICLE THURSDAY

The third in a series of articles by Jack Vincent describing the effect the national defense program may have on the cost of living for the man in the street will appear in The News-Journal tomorrow.

Triplets, Second Set In 6 Months, Born at Hospital

For the second time in six months the Stork carried a heavier bundle than ordinarily to General hospital and today Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Wilt of Bellville, are the parents of triplets, two boys and a girl.

Mrs. Wilt who is 39, is the mother of five other children. Two children, one of them a twin, are dead. Wilt who is 54, is a WPA worker.

The first of the triplets, a boy, was born at 4:21 a. m. today. Forty minutes later the second child, a girl, was born and 11 minutes after that, the second boy arrived.

All were reported as "doing well" this morning by hospital nurses. The first boy weighs 5 pounds, 6½ ounces; the girl weighs 5 pounds, 14 ounces; and the second boy 5 pounds, 2 ounces. The babies have not been named yet.

Last Jan. 15, triplets were born to Mr. and Mrs. Carroll J. Solomon, 431 Edgewood road. Of

SAWYER IN LINE

Ohioan Seen as Possibility For High Federal Post.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— The Ohio State Journal said today that Charles Sawyer, national Democratic committeeman from Ohio, is conferring in Washington "on his possible appointment to the cabinet or to a high post in the war department."

Sawyer told newsmen in Washington that he went to the capital to handle a legal case. The committeeman is a Cincinnati attorney.

The State Journal quoted a "high" ranking official in the Democratic party in Ohio" as saying he had received word that "President Roosevelt has been considering appointment of Sawyer to the post of attorney general or to an important defense post."

The attorney generalship will become vacant when Robert H. Jackson moves up to the supreme court.

REPORT SHORTAGE

BELLAIRE —(INS)— A shortage of coal miners was reported by the Rail and River Coal company as it sought to increase its working force in mines No. 4 and 6 from 800 to 1,600. It was pointed out there had been no difficulty hiring coal miners since 1918.

DEFERMENTS UP TO BOARDS

Richland Officials Told To Decide If Those Past 28 Should Be Deferred.

Richland county selective service boards and others throughout the state were told today to decide for themselves whether to defer men past 28 while the question of blanket deferment of all men over that age is pending in congress.

The senate has already approved a bill to make 28 the maximum age for selectees and it is expected that congress will also give its approval to the bill. If it passes, the measure would authorize draft boards to defer men who become 28 by July 1.

Meanwhile, the county draft board today completed plans for the registration next Tuesday of youths who have become 21 since last Oct. 16.

Board 3 officials said a registration station will be set up in Shelby for young men in that section of the county. Draft board headquarters in Mansfield will handle other registrations.

Young men who live west of Main strete in the Mansfield city limits will register at Board 1 headquarters on the sixth floor of the Farmers Bank building.

Those who live east of Main Main street in the Mansfield city outside the city limits must register at Board 2 headquarters on the ninth floor of the Richland Trust building.

Other young men living in the county rural areas outside Mansfield and Madison township may register either at the Board 3 office in the courthouse or at a place in Shelby to be announced later.

The registrations will be handled from 7 a. m. to 9 p. m. Tuesday by board members, employes, and advisory board members.

Knudsen Announces Changes In OPM Office To Hurry Defense.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON —(INS)— In a swift new move to aid Soviet Russia, President Roosevelt today decided to refrain from applying the restrictions of the neutrality act to the Soviet Union.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — In line with President Roosevelt's pledge of all possible assistance to the Red army, defense officials today instituted a quick survey to determine what immediate and effective aid could be provided for Soviet Russia.

The expectation was that Soviet overtures for help would not be long in materializing after Mr. Roosevelt's voluntary statement at his press conference yesterday, promising whatever aid that could be given.

The president emphasized that the Soviet had not yet made any request for help. He intimated, however, that since the United States also opposes Nazi aggression, this country was prepared to provide Russia with everything the nation's productive capacity can supply after meeting prior defense and lease-lend commitments.

The president's pledge was immediately implemented in one field when the treasury department ordered the release of between $50,000,000 and $100,000,000 in Russian assets here which were "frozen" on June 14 along with the holdings of Germany, Italy and other continental European nations.

Mr. Roosevelt likewise indicated

FLIERS KILLED

U. S. Aviators Die as Plane Crashes Into Mountain.

HONOLULU —(AP)— Three United States marine fliers were killed last night in the crash of their plane against the side of Haleakala, huge extinct volcano mountain on the island of Maui, during a formation flight.

The dead were First Lieut. William M. Ferris, Lakewood, N. J.; Second Lieut. Werner G. Hagerman, Kansas City, Kans.; Second Lieut. Clyde H. Story, whose home was not available immediately.

Maui residents saw the plane crash into an almost inaccessible section of the 8,000-foot mountain. A searching party reached the wreckage afoot and planned to bring the bodies down this morning.

Former President Hoover Attends Rites In New York.

NEW YORK —(AP)— In the presence of distinguished leaders in publishing enterprises, public life and entertainment fields, funeral services were held yesterday for Paul Block, the newspaper publisher who died Sunday at 63.

Former President Herbert Hoover, former Governor Alfred E. Smith, former Mayor James J. Walker and former Postmaster General James J. Farley were honorary pallbearers. About 500 friends attended the rites at Temple Emanu-el. Burial was at Woodlawn cemetery.

HUNT FATAL

Sheriff's Deputies Find Body of Hunter Near Fence.

AKRON —(AP)— A woodchuck hunting excursion ended in death for Thomas M. Halliday, 44-year-old resident of nearby Loyal Oak.

Missing since last Saturday, Halliday's body was found last night by sheriff's deputies, who said it appeared that Halliday had been shot when he became entangled in a fence and tried to free himself.

Nazi Crew Saved Doll for Her

Smiles returned today to the face of Elaine Morrill, four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Morrill, Ashland missionaries rescued from the ill-fated vessel Zamzam, as she reached the home of her grandmother, Mrs. John Fickes, in Ashland. Her dolly was restored to her by members of the German raider's crew who picked up the toy when gathering up a few other articles in the Morrill stateroom aboard the Zamzam.

Ashlanders Aboard Sunken Zamzam Return to Home

'Greatest Job Is Trying to Forget Terrors of Ship Sinking,' Say Missionaries Safe With 2 Children.

By ADA DOERR

(News-Journal Staff Correspondent)

ASHLAND—Weeks of terror that started with the shelling and sinking of the Zamzam by a German raider in the South Atlantic and their subsequent detention on a prison supply boat were at an end today as Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Morrill, rescued American missionaries, and their two children, reached the home of the latter's mother, Mrs. John Fickes, in Ashland.

Elaine, four years old, and Stephen, aged one and a half, still require the presence of their father or their mother in the room when they go to sleep at night, due to the fear instilled in their minds by the harrowing experience. Otherwise their life has returned to normal.

"Our greatest desire is to try to forget it all and erase the terror from the minds of the children," said Morrill as he recalled the family's experiences.

Plunges Into Cuyahoga River, Guardsmen Seek Body.

CLEVELAND—(INS)—Smashing through gates which had just been closed by a watchman but not yet locked, an automobile carrying one man believed to have been colored, plunged off the Center street swiging bridge today and into the Cuyahoga river.

Coast guardsmen immediately began dragging operations to recover the body. Police said it was possible the river current may have carried the body into Lake Erie only three quarters of a mile from the spot where the accident occurred.

HITS CHARGE

Churchill Scorns Rumor Minister Favored Peace Plan.

LONDON—(U.P.)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill today vigorously quashed in the house of commons charges that Lord Beaverbrook, minister without porfolio, had supported a peace plan favoring immediate peace with Germany.

"I doubt whether any importance should be attached to such malicious vaporings," Churchill said in regard to the charges after he had scoffed at efforts to connect Lord Beaverbrook with them.

PEGS PRICE

Henderson Fixes Maximum on Pig Iron to Check Rise.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Price Control Administrator Leon Henderson today set maximum prices on pig iron, the major raw material used in steel, in order to avoid recently noted "inflationary tendencies."

Henderson said that recent wage increases and the increased demand for pig iron resulting from the national defense emergency "have been exerting pressure upon the price structure" which caused price increases.

"In the interest of national defense and the public interest a price ceiling is necessary," he said.

BIDS ASKED

State to Receive Estimates On 1,700 Miles of Roads.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—State Highway Director Hal G. Sours today announced that bids on the department's $1,651,000 surface treating program would be received July 1, 18 and 22.

The program covers 1,784 miles of state highways throughout the state.

(By Associated Press)

Finland was reported to have joined Germany in the war against Russia today after Soviet planes raided Helsinki and southern Finland in reply to German raids that were reported to have left Leningrad in flames.

An authorized German spokesman in Berlin said Finland had formally declared war and that fighting was going on in full force.

Many Finnish civilians were reported killed and the city of Lappeenranta set afire.

A military spokesman in Berlin declared German successes "baffling the imagination" were achieved in the first three days of the war on Russia and would be announced tomorrow.

Before the Finnish declaration was announced in Berlin Helsinki made a sharp protest to Russia against what it called the unprovoked attack and said the Soviet assertion that German troops had attacked Russia through northern Finland was a deliberate lie.

Eden Gives Formal Word To Ambassador on Madrid Demonstration.

(By United Press)

LONDON —(U.P.)— Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden received the Duke of Alba, Spanish ambassador, today and was understood to have lodged a formal protest regarding an attack on the British embassy at Madrid during Nationalist demonstrations yesterday.

A demonstration against the embassy was described by informants as a mob assault "which clearly was a carefully organized attempt by Germans in Madrid to provoke bad blood and bad relations between Great Britain and Spain."

It was said that Sir Samuel Hoare, British ambassador at Madrid, would protest energetically to the Spanish government.

Hear Hitler To Call 'Axis-Bound' States

LONDON—(INS)—A Berlin radio broadcast heard in London today reported that Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler is planning to call a conference of all "Axis-bound" states shortly to declare a worldwide crusade against bolshevism.

Missions Head Says Presbyterians Contribute $156,000.

WOOSTER—(U.P.)—Reporting to the Ohio synod of the Presbyterian church, Rev. R. H. Rolofson, Ashtabula, head of the foreign missions committee, said that Ohio contributions for the church's foreign service during 1940 totaled $156,809, most of which was contributed by women's missionary and youth societies.

Rolofson said the church now has 153 foreign mission stations located in 16 countries.

Pravda, the Communist party organ, warned that "the world will be amazed by the forces which the Soviet people in its indignation and patriotic wrath" would hurl against Germany.

Bombs fell in Helsinki twice and started a forest fire outside the city. Many other Finnish cities were reported attacked.

Finnish fighters and anti-aircraft guns resisted the raids and were said to have shot down eight Russian planes.

Germany announced the war was progressing so favorably that "great successes" were in prospect. Deep thrusts of German columns into Russian territory were claimed. Reports from Turkey said Russians were offering little resistance in the former Rumanian province of Bessarabia and that a German parachute division was in readiness to attack Odessa, Russian Black sea port.

Germans told of heavy bombardment of Russian railways and air bases and German troops were said to have captured the former Lithuanian city of Vilna. A Helsinki dispatch reported gigantic fires in Leningrad following a German raid.

STAYS IN 80'S

Balmy Weather to Remain Till Thursday Night.

Clear skies and temperatures in the 80's will remain over Thursday, the weatherman said today, but it will start getting warmer again by Thursday night or Friday.

Low humidity and a cool north breeze kept Mansfielders comfortable today although the sun pushed the mercury up to 84 at noon. The reading this morning was a comfortable 51 degrees.

Yesterday's high was 86, two degrees below Monday's reading and five degrees under the sweltering 91 recorded Sunday.

More heat is moving in from the western states and is due to reach western Ohio Thursday and spread over the state tomorrow night or Friday, the forecast said.

Wheeler Says 'War Mongers' Ought to Enlist In Canada

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Sen. Wheeler (D., Mont.), leader of the congressional non-intervention bloc, said today he hopes that "all the nation's war mongers will accept President Roosevelt's blessing and go to Canada and enlist in the British army."

Referring to President Roosevelt's approval of the vountary enlistment of American boys in the British army and England's appeal for 15,000 to 30,000 Americans for the British civilian technical corps, Wheeler said he would be glad to see Secretaries of War Stimson and Navy Knox "and other war mongers in the administration" join with those who want to enlist for Britain.

Senator Mead (D., N. Y.) praised the president's statements. He declared that voluntary enlistment of American boys in British combat forces would not lead to an American expeditionary force. "Voluntary enlistment would be in keeping with the nation's effort to extend aid to Britain without becoming involved in the war," Mead said.

"Such action would not be in violation of our determined effort to help Britain all we can, and would not be in violation of the neutrality act," Mead continued. "The president was apparently expressing his personal views on the matter, and his statements should not be interpreted by those who oppose his foreign policy as an at-

FINNS DECLARE WAR ON RUSSIA AFTER ATTACK

Helsinki Bombed Repeatedly, Finland Charges; RAF Raids Continue.

from the "Fuehrer's headquarters" on the eastern front, came the Nazis' confident forecast of success.

"In the east, fights of the army, airforce and navy against Soviet armed forces take such favorable course that great successes are to be expected," the communique said.

The Russians acknowledged that they had been unable to halt three powerful German drives on the central and northern fronts. In the south, Ankara reports said German and Rumanian troops had occupied Cernauti, capital of Bucovina province, and Chisinau, capital of Bessarabia, both taken over from Rumania by Russia a year ago.

The Russians bombed Warsaw, Danzig and Rumanian Constanta to match German assaults on Ukraine cities and claimed they destroyed 381 German planes while losing 374.

Germany reported sinking two British freighters and setting big fires in Liverpool in raids against England which the British themselves characterized as "light."

Britain kept up her heavy bombing of Germany and the German occupied coast in an attempt to relieve some of the Nazi pressure on her Soviet ally. RAF bombers followed up their 14th successive night raid on Germany with a sweep across the channel today.

British reports said a greater tonnage of bombs had been dropped on Germany during the past two weeks than in the entire month of April.

A heavy air offensive was said by the British to have paved the way for new advances of imperial troops attempting to wrest Syria from Vichy French forces. The British were said to have retaken Merdjayoun from the French and to be attacking within 12 miles of Beirut, Lebanese capital.

French reports told of counter-attacks which recaptured Djezzine, south of Beirut and checked British forces driving on the desert town of Palmyra.

The British energetically protested a Falangist demonstration outside the British embassy in Madrid yesterday, claiming it was "staged by Germans."

Italy reported its torpedo planes had damaged a British cruiser off North Africa.

A Russian communique acknowledged loss of 374 planes in three days, most of them wrecked on the ground when the Luftwaffe struck through the dawn in the first hours of the war. The Soviet communique claimed, however, an even heavier toll of German planes—381, 161 of them downed in aerial fights and at least 220 smashed as the Red air fleet struck back at German airdromes.

The Russian communique indicated the Germans were pushing three principal spearheads into Soviet territory: one northeast from East Prussia toward Kaunas and Siauliai in Sovietized Lithuania; the second toward Grodno, Wolkowysk and Kobryn, in Sovietized northeastern Poland north of vast Pinsk marches, and the third in the direction of Wlodzimierz and Brody in the Sovietized Polish Ukraine.

The progress of these drives was not disclosed. The Russians spoke of "stiff resistance" and heavy German losses including annihilation of an entire Nazi mechanized regiment.

German press and war correspondent accounts of the fighting spoke, too, in terms of terrific destruction and heavy losses inflicted by German artificial fog-screened, flame-throwing ground units and dive-bombing Stukas.

DNB, official German news agency, said an entire Russian division—perhaps 15,000 men—had been destroyed.

The Russians said German planes bombed Crimean Sevastopol twice and repeatedly raided Minsk, capital of White Russia; Kiev, capital of the Ukraine; Riga, capital of Sovietized Latvia, and other western cities.

The Soviet air force was reported to have left the Black sea port of Constanta and Warsaw, German-dominated capital of Poland, in flames and to have raided Danzig, Koenigsberg in East Prussia, and other cities at least three times each.

Helsinki, capital of war-weary Finland which has announced a policy of neutrality, reported it was raided again shortly after dawn today by Soviet bombers.

The Finns, apparently seeking to remain out of the fight, have protested previous bombings of Finnish soil as an unjustified violation of their territory.

A Russian communique declared, however, that Finland as well as Rumania, had lent her territory to the German army and air force for attacks on Russia.

Britain, launched on a course of military as well as economic aid to Russia against a mutual foe, sent her bombers in a new sweep along the Nazi-held French coast and into western Germany last night. Only light raids on Britain were reported, with four German bombers shot down.

Behind an intensified RAF assault on French air bases in Syria and Lebanon, British and Free French troops were reported encircling ancient Palmyra, and carrying the fight to within 12 miles of Beirut, capital of Lebanon. Merdjayoun was reported again in British hands. The French, however, were said to be holding out near the town, as well as southeast of Damascus, where they were reported to have captured Rhozlaniye, 12 miles from the capital.

DUBBED HOAX

Woman's Story of Being Painted Black Called Fiction.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Mrs. Anna Kupisz's story that two men disrobed her and smeared black paint on her body was all a hoax, Detective Peter Merylo said today.

He quoted the 36-year-old woman as saying she concocted the abduction story recently to "get even" with a suitor. Mrs. Kupisz, who was found nude in a park road, will face court Tuesday on a charge of making a false report.

ASHLANDERS ON SHIP BACK HOME

Missionaries, Children Aboard Zamzam Recall Experiences of Tragic Trip.

gees, Morrill said he planned to carry both the children down the rope ladders.

Mrs. Morrill was already in the boat when he carried Stephen to safety.

"Stevie was so frightened that he nearly threw himself out of my arms in the water," Morrill explained.

"But that wasn't the worst of it. As I got to the lifeboat it was cut loose from the Zamzam and Elaine was left standing on the deck beside an Egyptian."

His frantic efforts to get back to the sinking ship were restrained by the other occupants of the lifeboat. Fear of another attack by the Nazi raider had caused the lifeboat crew to cut loose sooner than they had intended.

The distracted parents didn't see Elaine again for two or three hours when another lifeboat brought her to the raider that picked up the Zamzam's passengers and returned her to her family.

Fortunately for Elaine, her prized possession, a doll, was picked up by the German crew with several other articles belonging to the Morrill family.

Elaine told how "Captain Smith carried me down to a lifeboat 'horsieback'," and then transported her in a basket from the lifeboat to the raider.

"She never cried when she was left alone," Elaine's mother said. "But to us those few hours seemed ages. In fact the whole period of agony seems very indefinite. We cannot really name the days when the different steps of our rescue were accomplished."

The Morrills left practically all of their clothing except what they were wearing on the Zamzam. All of their passports, their highly-prized certificates of service from various European governments and all other legal papers were retained by the Germans.

"Food taken from the Zamzam was used by the officers of the German raider and supply boat," Morrill said, "while the food we were given to eat on the prison supply boat varied for adults and children."

Children under two years of age were given a cooked thick flour and water paste. Very coarse sour bread was dispensed to the men and the women and children above two received a coarse bread."

Only after illness had claimed nearly every one were the children provided a little portion of vegetables once a day, Morrill said.

One quart of water was the daily ration of each person for drinking and bathing, and after washing the people kept their water in a container for further ablutions and to wash out clothing.

TRANSIT STRIKE THREAT HURLED

Would Tie Up Transportation of Millions of New Yorkers.

NEW YORK—(INS)—Threat of a general transit strike that would paralyze transportation of New York's teeming millions to and from their offices and homes grew apace today when leaders of transit employes wrathfully walked out of a conference with board of transportation officials.

The conference was a star-chamber session but it was evident from facial and verbial expressions of the transport workers union leaders that their demands for wage boosts and a decrease in work hours had been rebuffed.

The workers' leaders, led by Michael Quill, warned flatly that if the city is subjected to a general transit strike "the blame will rest with the city government."

Vichy Claims Town Seized in Battle

VICHY —(INS)— Occupation of the Syrian town of Jezzine by French forces after a severe hand-to-hand struggle with Allied troops was announced by a military spokesman today.

The spokesman said that reports that Merj Ayoum has fallen to the British and "Free French" had not been confirmed and that the British were still halted by strong resistance in the Damascus region.

Contact between the opposing forces is being maintained in the Oum Oualad sector of the Jebel Druse region, the spokesman stated, while at Palmyra, the Vichy garrison has held out against all attacks for three days, aided by French planes.

The spokesman termed the situation in Syria "satisfactory" but said that numerous Allied forces were preparing for a general attack on all fronts.

tinuous service. Charles F. Ackerman, 83, has headed the Mansfield Savings Trust National bank for 31 years.

Mr. Rigby was serving his 27th year as president of the Richland Mutual Insurance company and his 11th year as head of the Mansfield Telephone company. He had been a director of the phone company and the Citizens National bank since 1902.

With his father, William Henry Rigby, he founded a wholesale cigar business in Mansfield in 1886. It was incorporated in 1901 as the J. A. Rigby Cigar company. He was vice president and treasurer of the Theobald-Oppenheimer Cigar company in Philadelphia and New York from 1901 until 1912 when it was consolidated with the General Cigar company. He was actively interested in the J. A. Rigby Cigar company here until 1924.

Born May 1, 1860 in Fredericktown, Mr. Rigby spent the first six years of his life in the Knox county village. His family then moved to Joliet, Ill., but came to Mansfield a year later.

The Rigby family first lived at the corner of West Fourth and North Mulberry streets on the present postoffice site. A short time later the elder Mr. Rigby built the house on the site of Dr. J. L. Stevens' residence on North Mulberry street, and the family moved there.

Mr. Rigby was graduated from Mansfield high school in 1877 and the same year started to work for J. R. Brown and Sons, wholesale notions dealers. He remained with the Brown company until he joined his father in organizing the cigar business in 1886.

Active throughout his lifetime in civic, religious and fraternal work, he was a member of all Masonic groups in Mansfield, the Valley of Dayton consistory, Al Koran Shrine at Cleveland, an honorary life member of the Elks lodge, and a member since childhood of the Park Avenue Baptist church. He was a trustee of the Park Avenue church and superintendent of its Sunday school for a number of years.

Funeral services will be conducted at 4 p. m. Thursday at the Park Avenue Baptist church with Rev. Albert L. Linder officiating. Burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery. In respect to Mr. Rigby, the Citizens' National Bank and Trust company will be closed at noon Thursday for the services.

The body will be at the Finefrock funeral home until noon Thursday when it will be taken to the church to lie in state until time for the services.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Mary Black Rigby whom he married in 1892; one son, Henry B. Rigby of Detroit, Mich., and one daughter, Mrs. Hortense R. Tucker, wife of Lieut. Col. J. H. Tucker, jr., Shreveport, La.

Jap Cabinet Holds Emergency Session

TOKYO — (INS) — The Japanese cabinet headed by Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye held an emergency session today with the members of the high command of the armed forces.

The cabinet and military leaders were declared to have discussed "important questions confronting Japan."

Rumors in London On Jap Attitude

LONDON—(INS)—Official circles in London buzzed today with conflicting reports regarding Japan's decision in the light of the Russo-German war.

The Japanese embassy denied that any plans were being made in Tokyo for participation in the hostilities on the side of Germany despite Japan's Axis commitments. International News Service, however, was informed that Japan is drafting certain demands on Russia concerning "safety of the Pacific coast."

An allied source insisted that a Japanese move against Russia is "imminent."

Following an emergency army, navy and political meeting on June 24, this source said, Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka immediately received Eugen Ott, German ambassador to Tokyo, and conferred with him for an hour.

Reports in London some weeks ago predicted joint German-Japanese demands upon Russia which would prove inacceptable and would be followed by a joint attack on the Soviet Union.

Triplets, Second Set In 6 Months, Born at Hospital

the three, two were girls and one was a boy, reversing the order of the Wilt's brood.

Wilt didn't know he was a father of triplets until this morning when he had a friend call the hospital from Bellville for him.

The eldest of the living Wilt children is Mary, aged 15. Others follow in this order: Margaret, 14; Marvin, 8; Ralph, 4; and Richard, 2.

Mrs. Wilt said this morning she believed the two older girls could manage the home while she was recuperating in the hospital. The hardest job, she explained, would be caring for the youngest boy, Richard, but she is "sure the others could get along for a few days until she could get on her feet."

Wilt is currently working with a bridge construction gang south of Ontario, on a county road just off the Millsborough road.

Mrs. Wilt today appeared the most composed of the five women in her ward, answering questions, posing with her babies for pictures, and talking with the nurses in a perfectly matter of fact way.

A Million Dollars To Relieve Piles

It is estimated that over a million dollars annually is spent for various remedies for relieving piles. Yet any druggist will tell you that soothing, cooling, astringent Peterson's Ointment will allay pile torture in a few minutes. 35c a box, 60c in tube with applicator. Peterson's Ointment stops itching promptly, brings joyful relief. Money back if not delighted.

U. S. SPEEDING PLANS TO AID SOVIET RUSSIA

Officials Expect Request From Moscow To Follow Offer By President.

that henceforth the Soviet would have no difficulty in obtaining export licenses for all war munitions and supplies which can be spared. The big question was what could be spared. The outlook here was dubious and beset with difficulties.

Since the beginning of the war the Soviet has been a heavy purchaser of oil, copper, machine tools, leather, cotton, oil drilling machinery, iron and steel products, and a wide variety of machinery. Soviet purchases here in 1940 were exceeded only by British and French purchases of war supplies.

With the war in progress, the scope of Russian requirements was expected to increase. It was thought likely that the Soviet soon would be seeking warplanes to make up for combat losses. Here, however, the present American production is still insufficient to fill commitments made to Britain and China, or to meet the demands of the expanding U. S. war arms.

Russia, therefore, would have a long wait before she could hope to obtain planes. However, once they are available, there is no ban against her purchasing them, for the state department on Jan. 21 lifted the "moral embargo" which penalized the Soviet as a nation guilty of "bombing and machine-gunning civilian populations from the air."

High test aviation gasoline, another "moral embargo" commodity, likewise may be exported to Russia now, on permit, but its shipment calls for tankers and few are available.

Russia Gratified Over Aid Offer

MOSCOW —(INS)— President Roosevelt's announcement that the United States will give all possible aid to Russia against Germany was published in Soviet newspapers under huge headlines today.

All commentators expressed deep gratification.

Knudsen Announces OPM Re-organization

WASHINGTON—Spurred on by a "Dear Bill" letter from President Roosevelt, OPM Director William S. Knudsen today started a drive to speed up national defense production throughout the nation after declaring that Hitler's invasion of Russia made the position of the U. S. "more risky."

Knudsen began the drive in his own office, announcing a sweeping administrative reorganization of the OPM in order, he said, to "expedite" the defense program by eliminating overlapping divisions and cutting governmental red tape.

Simultaneously he revealed that President Roosevelt had written him a letter asking him to see that industries filling army and navy orders secure all the machine tools they need, even if he had to step into private industries such as those manufacturing automobiles, iceboxes and other consumer goods and take the necessary equipment.

Mr. Roosevelt, who addressed Knudsen as "Dear Bill," told the OPM director that "I wish you would inform me of it . . If any difficulty is experienced in securing the cooperation of any consumer goods industry or plant in transferring any machine to a defense industry." By this the president hinted business as usual must go by the boards and Knudsen sa... too, "defense comes first."

Knudsen said every effort will ... made not to dislocate industri... of communities by ordering shi... ment of machine tools to defen... centers. But if necessary, he sai... it will be done.

RULES PRIMARY AT MILLERSBURG OUT THIS YEAR

Sweeney Says Election Can Be Eliminated Under New Legislation.

MILLERSBURG — The August primary election scheduled in Millersburg for August 12, will be eliminated this year. Secretary of State John E. Sweeney ruled that primary election could be eliminated due to the lack of party opposition in a letter received here this week by Harold E. Kuhn, clerk of the board of elections.

Among the fourteen petitions filed at the time of the deadline there were no Republican office-seekers. The only contest was between Democrats for the office of marshal Due to a newly enacted law becoming effective September 5, which dispenses with an elective office for village marshal and makes the office appointive, there will be no purpose of the election to select a marshal, Sweeney ruled

The candidates who have filed petitions will be asked to file a written withdrawal and their fee of filing the petition will be refunded, the letter from the secretary of state, states.

Democrats who will be eligible for the general election are Robert W. Hallam, mayor, Sam Franks, jr., clerk; William F. Grassle, treasurer, Glendon Uhl, incumbent, Carl H Mast, J L. Kennedy, R E Marchand and E M Cox, for office of councilmen, Scott V. Mast, David Franks and Louis Miley, members of the board of public affairs

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 25, 1941.

About this time of year the tramp begins to call himself a migratory worker.

There are still some old-timers who don't like these new cars because they can't hear the motor running.

We're so dumb about our housing that we sometimes wonder why the snails, who solved that problem millions of years ago, didn't inherit the earth.

The St. Lawrence Argument

THERE are good arguments in favor of the proposed St. Lawrence Seaway and also good arguments against it, with the pro-seaway people at present making considerable headway.

Of arguments pro and con, the hostility based on fear that a deep channel would let in foreign invaders seems the most far-fetched. It is hardly imaginable that hostile submarines or other craft would penetrate the Gulf of St. Lawrence and the lower reaches of the big river and continue on up past Quebec and Montreal, a thousand miles or more, to menace the interior of the continent.

Some scared objectors have even pictured such hostile craft as passing through the canal locks and getting up through the Welland canal into Lake Erie and the upper lakes, if the channel in the shallow stretches were deepened to 27 feet. This is sheer fantasy or bluff. The waterway project should be considered rationally, on its merits.

There can be serious arguments about new competition in the lake carrying trade, and about added competition for railroads—matters which might worry our inland water and rail carriers in normal times.

On the other hand, there is the enormous water power which could be made available in the form of electric current for factories and homes.

Children's Lives Saved

TEN-YEAR-OLDS have the lowest death rate, according to the American Institute of Actuaries. There is a continuous improvement from birth to age 10, when the death rate is only 1.07 per 1,000. After that it starts to increase.

Even for other age groups, however, the death rate has dropped during recent years. Infant mortality, for example, has declined by 45 per cent over a period of 20 years. The death rate among children one to 14 years of age has decreased by 60 per cent. "Equally important," says a report of the association, "there is no sign of slackening in the rate of improvement.

But there are wide disparities in the health records of individual communities. Some do much better than the average; others fall far below it in prevention of disease or in promoting health. Public authorities and private health agencies have achieved greatest success in the control of acute and infectious diseases. They have learned that better standards of living benefit health. They will not abate their efforts to solve health problems and end the causes of disease until a great deal more progress has been made.

Kindness to Waitresses

IF WE are correctly informed, this is "Be Kind to Waitresses Week," and obviously something should be done about it—we're not quite sure what. The National Restaurant association hasn't been very explicit.

Is the idea to be more polite to waitresses, or to give them bigger tips, or to date them for a dance or a movie, or just to meet them on a friendly level and jolly them along so that they'll feel like giving a fellow three pats of butter and two pieces of pie, or what?

Anyway, to a lot of men in the newspaper business and various other lines, who have more or less to do with waitresses in the course of the day's work, this festival of kindness seems a little superfluous. However it may be in other countries, it seems to us that Americans in general, and American men in particular, treat waitresses pretty well and are treated pretty well by them in return. In fact, where girls do the waiting, this whole business of "eating out" generally operates on a pleasant basis of mutual understanding and courtesy.

That is, when wives are not along. Somehow it's a little harder, when they are around, to establish the easy camaraderie that makes a waitress cheerful and cooperative and gets a man well fed, even if he has to wait for it.

Summer Symphonies

A CROWD of 24,000 people attended an outdoor symphony concert in New York City the other evening. The conductor presented an all-Tchaikovsky program which delighted the audience so much that they cheered as well as clapped their hands, and the sound of their approval "drowned all neighborhood noises." One reviewer said it would have lifted the roof if the stadium had had a roof.

The metropolis is not alone in its musical enthusiasm. In Cleveland the summer concert season began with a capacity audience of nearly 7,000. And in other cities through the country good music is offered and well patronized by crowds who obviously enjoy every note.

America has all this and radio, too. Although dance bands may predominate, there is much good music on the air even in the summer. These things, one should note, take place in a nation only recently considered inartistic and unable to appreciate music. Perhaps that gift never was limited to Old World music-lovers. Certainly it is well established here today.

Australian Locusts

THOSE antipodean "Aussies" are certainly air-minded. A dispatch from Melbourne says that a call for recruits in the Australian air force has brought 160,000 applications for enlistment in that branch of the service.

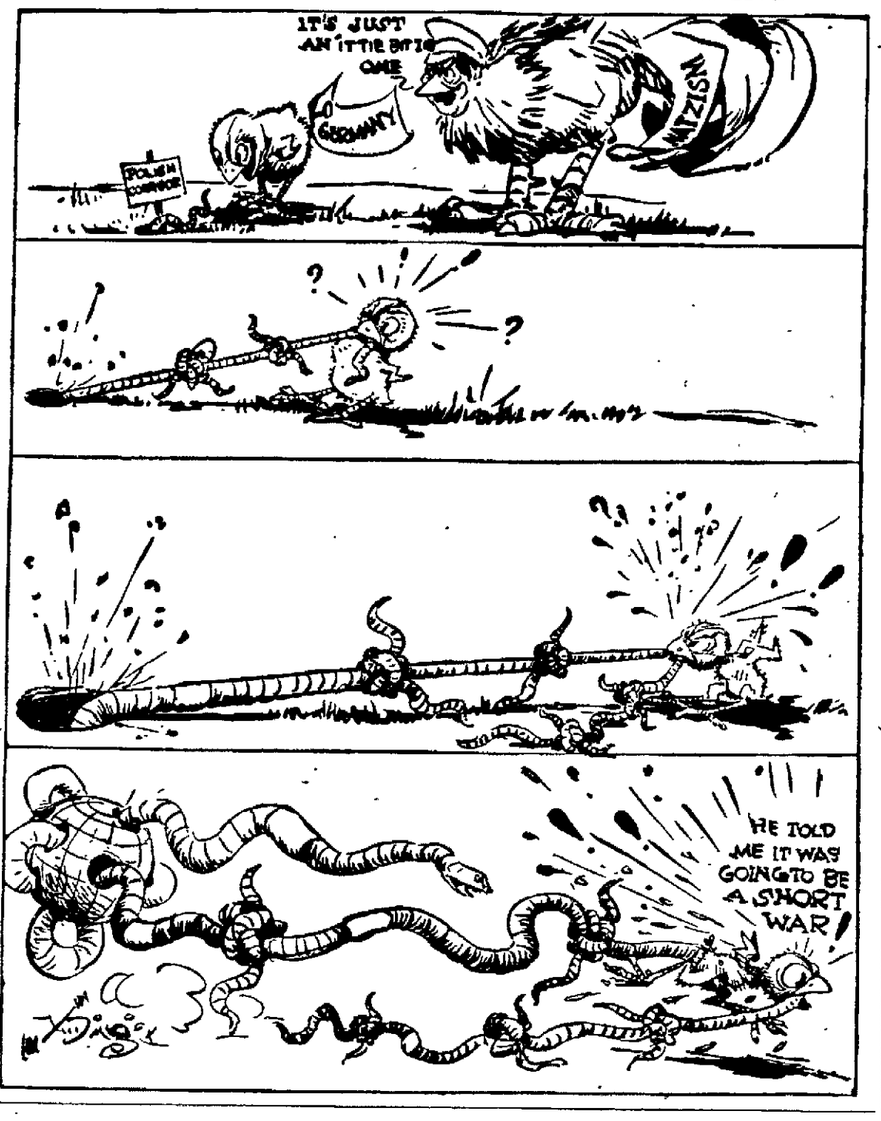
There are differences among races as regards air-mindedness and flying ability. The Japanese, for instance, seem to lack a gift for flying. The British have shown themselves better than the Germans. The Australians, a special breed of Britishers, may be still better.

You can almost see those 160,000 Aussies pouring into Europe like Milton's swarm of "locusts warping on the eastern wind."

Hatton W. Sumners, Texas congressman, thinks the trouble with this country is too much talk and not enough work, and that's pretty good for a man in his line.

Double, double, tax and trouble!

IT'S A LONG WORM THAT HAS NO TURNING



Facts You Can't Always Advertise

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—There is an odd kind of censorship going on which, probably because of the flow of big news, rarely is mentioned.

Manufacturers who hold defense contracts, it seems, have to submit to the Office of Production Management, army or navy, all advertising which mentions in any way that they may not be able to deliver this or that because their national defense commitments or priorities have taken this or that off the market.

For obvious reasons, I can't name names — but this came directly from a manufacturer. About two months ago, he wanted to explain in a national advertising campaign that for a few months it might be hard to get his particular patented article but that if customers would just bear with him for a short time he would be back in the production groove.

For two months OPM and the army mulled over this ad—ordered a dozen changes until it hardly said anything—and finally agreed to okay it subject to last-minute revisions. The harassed manufacturer tried to explain that national advertising campaign were planned weeks or months in advance—that magazines had to lock their ad forms a long time ahead—that national advertising to newspapers can not be sold and planned on 24-hour notice. OPM, which had the last word, was adamant.

"But I tell you it can't be handled that way," said the manufacturer. "If you won't agree to my proposition, suggest another."

What he got was a suggestion that he just drop the whole thing altogether and carry on with his usual advertising.

If you hear about a New Jersey producer jumping into one of his own acid vats, he said to me, don't be surprised.

A Reversal Of Form.

ACIDS bring up another choice priorities yarn that is floating around the capital.

In the early days of national defense (before OPM) a big chemical company that turns out a product which is 95 per cent a chemical that is important to one vital defense product sent a representative to Washington to offer to curtail the manufacture of this nationally-advertised item until it was determined how much of it would be necessary for defense.

The representative was given a run-around and sent home with the assurance that the government could do without him and his company very nicely, thank you.

That was about a year ago. today, the same company, with a government contract and under government orders, is buying back its product from wholesalers and retailers—in many cases at a premium—and going through the expensive process of taking out of it the 5 per cent extraneous chemicals, trying to avoid a national shortage of that vital 95 per cent.

Causing the Thunder.

COUPLE a big number of such stories with the testimony before congressional committees that some cantonments have cost us hundreds of thousands of dollars more than original estimates—that a year ago there was ridiculous waste and shipments, even to unfriendly nations, of vital materials (steel and scrap iron are examples)—and you will see why a lot of thunder is rumbling over the heads of national defense agencies today.

Something To Remember.

ONE encouraging thing came to me the other day from one of the outstanding production chiefs of the World war. He said: "I know that you are going to find grave errors in judgment and many examples of serious waste—but if you will just go back and search out the idiocies and criminal graft and extravagances of 1917 and '18, I think you will see that we have progressed and that public demands and public scorn will drive the red tapeworms, the grafters and the fifth columnists out of the pasture in time to save the crop."

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Saturday, June 25, 1921.

John L. Barr, candidate for nomination for mayor on the Republican ticket, died.

Byron Hoffer took eight members of the Boy Scout Troop, No. 2 to Flemings Falls for a camping trip.

Mansfield business men were being interviewed as to their opinion of coming Dempsey-Carpentier fight.

Mansfield Kiwanis club members were in attendance at the international meeting in Cleveland.

Serious damage was caused by fire at the home of Mrs. R. O. Styert, 226 Newman street.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Thursday, June 25, 1936.

Charles F. Ackerman, J. Edgar Willis, Jacob Sheriff, David Gibson and N. P. Foulks were honored by the K. of P. for completing 50 years of membership in the organization.

Charles R. Studer, 55 Douglas avenue, reported his car had been stolen.

City Solicitor Herbert H. Schettler, Dr. O. H. Schettler, Carlton Fernyak and Paul Wilmore were vacationing.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Karl Wolford, 127 Stewart avenue.

Miss Sylvia Fritz and Charles Martin were married at the First Methodist church.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Today is the anniversary of the Battle of the Little Big Horn in Montana. Gen. George A. Custer and 276 soldiers of the 7th Cavalry were massacred by Indians under Sitting Bull on June 25, 1876.

About Harry Bridges

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

THIS fellow Bridges. Who, as I write, is being tried in San Francisco for what are claimed to be his various subversive activities. I'm going to make a few remarks anent him, if it's the last thing I do. For if ever a conniving trickster was making a sucker out of these United States, this guy is doing it. And I wonder how long we intend to let it continue?

Mind you, I'm willing to give any person his due. I do not blame Mr. Bridges for being an alien. If I so loved my country that I could not sever my allegiance to it (and I do!) I would be an alien. I would never, if it cost my head, belong to any nation but America.

But, even so, I would face my situation sincerely and act accordingly, without guile or hypocrisy. If I remained an alien in a foreign land, I would be a consistent alien. I would not batten on the industrial force of that foreign land . . . I would not line my own purse by agitating its workers while withholding my allegiance to its institutions.

By his own admittance, and record, this fellow Bridges has done all this, and more. Why he has remained an alien is a little mysterious since he "loved" his native Australia so deply that he skipped over the side of one of her ships in the dark of the moon and departed otherward as fast as his smart shins would take him.

Since when he has started to take out naturalization papers three times . . . and passed them all up. If this be patriotism, give me larceny.

After which, Mr. Bridges' career centered around that most profitable of all rackets, Raising Hell. In short, he organized his branch of labor by telling all and sundry they'd been Done Dirt, and proceeded to heave the results in Uncle Sam's teeth.

All of which is neither unique nor sensational. Coping with the muck of other national gutters is one of the penalties of Democracy. But what I'd like to know is this . . . HOW LONG ARE WE GOING TO BE THE WORLD'S SUCKER NATION?

Mr. Bridges himself admitted that, during the disastrous San Francisco waterfront strike of 1934, he "conferred with and took orders from Communistic leaders." He has revealed that he was, time and again, involved in Communistic activities and endorsed Communistic principles. Whether Bridges is a Communist now is yet to be proved. But that's immaterial. I, and every other citizen with the brains God gave a weavil, knows that Bridges is a pest and a menace. And that he's making a monkey of this American government.

Even while standing trial, Mr. Bridges has been conducting his special activities. He has wired encouragement and endorsement to strikers in the Northwest. Granted that they have a right to strike even at a time like this, are we going to let alien shipdeserters egg 'em on?

Here's a man who couldn't be loyal even to his own land. Yet we let him push ours around!

Haven't we enough 100 per cent Americans in this country to lead our labor, and mold our ideals, without letting "a man without a country" grab the job?

Whose fault is it? It's ours. We've always been like this. Bighearted saps. Letting any tinhorn gambler take us for a ride. And we're reaping the results right now. And may reap even worse results in the future unless we snap out of it and render one verdict to Mr. Bridges, and all the profiteering parasites who are infesting our country today.

Five Billions More Sought For Lend-Lease Fund as Costs Go Up

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—The new lend-lease appropriation that has been tentatively agreed on by inner advisers is $5,000,000,000.

With the seven billion voted by congress several months ago, this would make a total of 12 billion for aid to the democracies. Yet this stupendous sum is still considerably short of what was originally proposed, also of what probably will be ultimately required.

It's a White House secret, but the first lend-lease program submitted added up to $19,000,000,000. This was slashed to 9 billion by the army and navy and then still further cut to 7 billion by the budget bureau. The last figure was approved by the president and sent to congress.

One reason for the new appropriation is that many of the original price estimates have been found to be far too low, particularly in the case of planes, ships and guns. Rising costs, due to changes in construction, more expensive new models, and increased production charges, made it impossible to contract for these items at the original estimates; and more money is needed to fulfill the program.

Another reason for the lend-lease boost is heavy outlays for repairs on battle-damaged British warships, of which a number are now in U. S. yards.

This type of aid is running into big money.

Most important, however, is the urgent need for expansion of the whole aid-democracies program. Britain, China and the other Axis foes require increased assistance to meet the greatly enlarged resources of the Nazis brought by their conquest of Europe.

Britain today must stand off not only the industrial power of Germany, but also that of France, Belgium, Holland, Rumania, Hungary, and other Nazi victims. So if Britain is to continue fighting she must secure much more help from the United States. Without such aid she will quickly be overwhelmed by sheer weight of material.

Red Tape-itis

While most of the $7,000,000,000 lend-lease money has been allocated, some $500,000,000 earmarked for new armament plants is still lying around idle. And close to four billion of other defense appropriations for new plants also is twiddling its thumbs while army supply brasshats and OPM chiefs, enmeshed in coils of red tape, are stalling around.

It takes from eight to fifteen months to erect these plants, so this delay in getting construction started means a serious crimp in the defense program.

Chiefly to blame are army supply brasshats, who are inadequate to handle the colossal task thrust on them, but so jealous of their bureaucratic powers that they won't let anyone else tackle it. OPM heads are champing at the precious time being wasted, but lack authority to override the army and haven't the gumption to raise a row.

Note—The army is formulating a new appropriation bill for itself of around $3,000,000,000. This additional money is wanted to provide equipment for an army of 2,800,000, double the present size.

Merry-Go-Round.

Creation of a new defense agency to handle jurisdictional problems between civil and military aviation is being considered by the president, strongly urged by Representative Jack Nichols of Oklahoma, chairman of the house committee investigating recent airline disasters. Nichols favors federal control over all navigable air space . . . Delegates to the Townsendite convention in Buffalo next month will hear the two leading senatorial spokesmen on foreign policy — Senator Claude Pepper, interventionist champion, and Senator Burt Wheeler, isolationist . . . Employes of the British purchasing mission leaving the elevator at their offices are confronted with this sign: "The existence of the British Empire depends on YOUR effort. Chins up—There Will Always Be An England" . . . Since checking booths were installed at Capitol entrances, police daily turn up some fresh oddity. Last week a sea captain's wife, accompanied by six wide-eyed youngsters, left a large bundle of sailors' hardtack biscuit.

Will Davis.

The country doesn't like strikes any more than it likes war, but the war has brought out many men of stature, and the strikes have brought out William H. Davis, new chairman of the national defense mediation board.

Actually Davis is no "war baby," but a veteran who has been working at labor mediation for many years. Still it was settlement of the Allis-Chalmers strike that first won him national attention.

By profession Davis is a patent lawyer, with offices in New York City. On the very next day after the Allis-Chalmers triumph, he appeared before the U. S. Supreme Court, his hair no more unruly than usual, to argue a patent case. He makes his living from big-money firms, but he has a strong liberal viewpoint toward labor.

When a committee of congress asked him what he thought of a bill to outlaw strikes, he said, "When you pass compulsory legislation, you make the working man a slave, and there is not use producing defense materials for a nation of slaves."

There are a lot of odd pieces in Davis' life. He was born in Bangor, Me., schooled in Washington, D. C., is a member of New York's swanky Downtown Athletic club, a labor sympathizer, founder of the Grand Central Art Galleries, father-in-law of Argentine diplomat Alonzo Irigoyen, and careless with his clothes.

One phrase-maker says Davis has "the face of a kindly bulldog." Another "the face of a tired trombone player." Not many faces would answer to that. Davis is easy to spot in a crowd.

Davis is a patient man, but if he does much more mediation of the Allis-Chalmers kind, his brother may be looking for him, to put him on the stage. His brother is Owen Davis, who wrote "The Nervous Wreck."

OPM Power Expert.

How the One Dollar boys stick together when one of their number is under fire is illustrated by the case of Charles W. Kellogg, OPM power expert.

Head of the Edison Electric Institute and militantly utility-minded, Kellogg pooh-poohed warnings of a power shortage by other OPM experts. He climaxed this with a speech asserting there were ample power facilities, just after the OPM had announced plans for a big power expansion program. The ineptness was so blatant that OPM Director General Knudsen personally ordered an official statement repudiating Kellogg's speech.

Administration chiefs, who had long been fuming about Kellogg, were not satisfied with this slap on the wrist. They demanded his ouster.

But although OPM chiefs were willing to spank their fellow One Dollar Man, they balked at firing him. They hemmed and hawed, finally evolved an ingenious compromise — namely, a committee replacing Kellogg as power chief, but with him serving as a member.

So far this face-saving committee has not been appointed, and Kellogg is still on OPM rolls as its power authority.

Note—When President Roosevelt recently sent his request to congress for an additional $40,000,000 for TVA to develop new power resources, he ignored consulting Kellogg.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — The purest essence of bedlam anywhere is to be found in the large studios on Broadway where dozens of popular dance bands hold rehearsals simultaneously before taking to the road or moving on to asignments elsewhere.

One witnesses this indescribable phenomenon and is at once fascinated and appalled. For the layman it is almost overwhelming. There isn't anything like it anywhere.

You step from the elevator into a reception "hall" that would satisfy even Billy Rose as living space. It approximates in size a North Caroline tobacco warehouse. In the center is a corps of reception clerks—young girls at telephones who know where the studio rooms are and at what hour the various bands are booked.

In pleasant confusion about this expanse of floor are little groups who stand in twos and threes and in clusters and racemes, gabbing about the trade. Young men with trombones under their arms, with trumpets and fiddles and clarinets under their arms . . . Young men in a circle about an automatic sodapop vending machine, standing in shirt-sleeves and sweaters and raincoats and sport coats, wearing slacks and sweatshirts and tennis shoes and soft suede shoes.

You see here and there young girls, mostly fresh and alert and dark-haired and red-lipped . . . These are the vocalists . . . They sing with the orchestras, but they are gabbing now, gabbing in high, pleasant, feminine voices, eager and in fine spirits.

Leading off the "hall" like barracks in a military quadrangle, are the studios . . . At one and the same time swing bands, rhuba bands, bands that play sweet music, waltz music and jitter music are blaring their souls in waves of co-ordinated, rhythmic sound that beat against the brain and the imagination of an onlooker with the steady, relentless persistence of summer rain in Pago Pago.

Jimmy Dorsey in No. 1, Harry James in No. 2, Woody Herman in No. 3, . . . swing time trumpet time, and time for the blues . . . the Woody Herman blues . . . His rehearsal appointment is from 4 p. m. to 6 p. m. . . He comes in and shakes hands with a bull fiddle player . . . Above the din a drummer shouts a greeting . . . They have just come in out of the rain and a day-long drive from a town in New Hampshire . . . They have two hours for rehearsal . . . Then they hurry to a recording studio and make six records for Decca. . . . After that they get into their cars and hit the long, wet winding road for Williamsburg, Va. . . . It's Williamsburg tomorrow night, and Richmond the next and new towns for every night from then on in, to the end of the tour.

It's a great life, they say . . . great, that is, if you're a young man with a horn, or a bull fiddle or a piccolo.

A Farmer's Diary

Too Much Money

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I MET, in town, an old schoolmate of mine. Forty years ago we went to country school together—read from the same book, worked problems from the same arithmetic, swam together in the old swimmin' hole at the bend of the creek and climbed the ridge for huckleberries.

He was a towhead, then, with the bluest eyes full of twinkling mischief—now he stood before me a man full of years, a man with a furrowed brow and lines of pain and sorrow about the mouth. His eyes were pale and tired and gray, and I wondered silently what had happened.

"I've been reading your column," he said. "You're a lucky man. I had five children, too, and lived on a farm. The happiest days we ever spent were there, before we had any money. You heard, maybe, that Uncle Hank died and left us considerable wealth?"

I recalled having heard of an Uncle Hank, somewhere in the west, but denied knowing of the legacy. "Tell me about it," I suggested.

"Uncle Hank owned oil lands," he said, "and was worth almost a million. Our share was more than $50,000—and it changed everything. We were used to hard work and scrimping to make ends meet, and we got along all right. Everything we had worked and saved for became out of balance over night. We sold the farm—against my protests—and bought a splendid property in the city. We got everything we thought we wanted —an expensive car, and the boys kept it on the road.

"Two years after we moved to town the oldest boy and his mother and sisters were killed in a wreck, coming home from a party. I kept out of the social whirl, myself. The youngest son was left. He's married now and in business for himself—but here I am an old man before my time. I'd give anything to be back on that little farm again, with things as they were."

"Come down," I said. "Ours is 'four rooms and path'—but the path is between green hills and greener pastures. We like the farm,—and we have no Uncle Hank!"

He gripped my hand. "Goodbye," he said, "and more power to you!"

The Secret of the Marshbanks + + +

By Kathleen Norris

(Copyright, 1941)

CHAPTER XXIV

"Talk to Uncle about what?" Amy asked amazedly.

"About this girl," said her grandmother, speaking in a light, panting fashion, quite beside herself with anger. "This girl who is your dear friend, who loves you so, and is such good company, and wears Fran's outworn frocks, and is the daughter of a servant—a servant in my house! This girl who comes in now with a claim that she is Amelia Marshbanks' daughter, and you are the unwanted one."

Amy looked from one to the other with a puzzled, but not in the least alarmed expression.

"I haven't the slightest idea what you're talking about, Gran," she said. The old woman, with a sudden look of resolution, spoke again:

"Amy, there's something you've never known, something I hoped you never would know. But you'll have to hear it now, for your uncle feels he must tell you. Well, he'll not tell you, for I will! You never guessed that your father was also Cherry's father?"

"I never guessed it because it isn't true," Amy answered, in proud distaste.

"It is true, my child. Your father was a fascinating man. Women were drawn to him."

"Cherry and I are the same age," Amy protested. "He was married. I don't — of course, I don't believe it!".

"Cherry was born two months too soon. Her mother was Charlotte Rawlings, the younger sister of Emma Haskell, who was your grandfather's nurse for years—my housekeeper after that. A poor weak, pretty little thing, 18 or so, with no background, no character . . ."

"You are not hurting me," Cherry said steadily, interrupting. "You are talking of Amy's mother."

Amy turned to Cherry, pathetic and bewildered. "What is all this, Cherry? What's she talking about? I think my grandmother's losing her mind. What's it all about?"

"I saw Emma a few weeks ago, up in the mountains," Cherry began speaking in a voice suddenly hoarse and weak. "She told me that—that there had been a mistake in—in you and me—in our identities, Amy, when we were just newborn babies . . ."

"Of which there is absolutely no proof!" put in the old lady harshly.

"There was proof. Judge Marshbanks will tell Amy so if she asks him," Cherry was beginning, when Amy interrupted again in her turn:

"You mean I'm not Amy Marshbanks, and my father's and mother's child and Grandfather Wellington's grandchild? But that's so idiotic. I can assure you that I know perfectly well who I am." Amy summarized it triumphantly. "You feel who you are," she ended superbly; "you know. If I'd been anyone else how possibly could I have—but then it's all too silly!"

"You are right, Amy," said Mrs. Marshbanks, more quietly than she had yet spoken. "You are absolutely right, my darling, and I am proud of you. And now, girls, no more of it. It's late, and I am going to bed. Good night, Amy."

"What do you suppose got her?" Amy asked in a whisper when they were in the hall. "She gets the most crack-brained ideas! Come into my room, Cherry. No, come on in a minute. Is any of that true? Was my father really your father, too?"

"Emma says so," Cherry admitted, sick of the whole thing.

"Uncle says so?"

"Yes. Yes. He told me long ago. When I was here after Mrs. Porter died."

"Honest?" Amy asked, between a smile and a frown. And Cherry could see that she was not wholly displeased with the idea. "So Emma and my father—" mused Amy, a deep dimple appearing in her flawless little cheek.

"Not Emma. Emma's younger sister, Charlotte. She was only nineteen. She was just out of boarding school."

"That makes us cousins, doesn't it?" Amy asked, still marveling at the strangeness of it. "No, it doesn't," she corrected it quickly, "it makes us half sisters! But I wouldn't feel bad about it," Amy went on, with a hint of patronage in her kindly voice, "because, after all, my father was a perfectly fascinating person, and he was a Marshbanks, and it was — oh, I don't know, a long time ago, and nobody knows it, so who cares? And if we're sisters, well, we like each other anyway."

Cherry was standing looking at the other girl steadily. "I think I'll go to bed, Amy. I'm terribly tired."

"To me," Amy said, with a little important stress upon the pronoun, "it's all sort of silly because I have this plan of marrying Gogo in my mind. Tonight he said to me, 'In ten days I will have the sweetest little wife in the world in my arms, and then I defy them to get her away from me!" Cherry did you think he was fascinating?"

"Yes, that was just what I did think he was—fascinating" Cherry said wearily as she went away. Amy called after her: "He liked you, too!" But Cherry made no answer.

She went to her room and began slowly to undress. The thought of Kelly rose steadily to the surface of the moving sea of other thoughts, and a warm sense of comfort and happiness began to envelop her in spite of herself. He had come to see her, not anyone else. Nothing else mattered, now that Kelly was her friend.

Before she fell asleep she heard Fran and the judge come in, and Amy's voice in the hall: "Uncle Jud, could I speak to you a minute?"

"Tonight?" said the judge's pleasant voice in answer.

"If I could, Uncle!"

"All right, trot down to the library, there's a fire there, Cherry heard him say, and then Fran's voice, "If it's the comic-opera count, Jud, be firm with her!"

He followed Amy down, and there was silence above stairs. Cherry nervously excited, got into bed intending to wait until Amy came up, and to gather, if she could from Amy's manner how the conference had gone. But she was too sleepy. Long before the light in the hall went out she was deep in dreams.

They were troubled dreams. Someone was in danger. A hoarse voice called out "Help, help, help!"

Cherry sat up in bed, terrified at darkness, sweat suddenly cold on her hands and spine and brow. What was it? Somebody had called "Help!"

A shout came from the floor below, and then the sound of a revolver shot clove the darkness sharply.

Cherry was at the door now. The hall lights rushed up and the light over the stairs. Amy was at the switch, pallid with fright; stout sturdy Molly, with May and some of the other maids behind her, was running down from the upper floor. Fran, clinging to the banister, was on the stairs.

"What was that?" Fran said, in a quick quiet voice. "Let's not lose our heads. It was nothing."

They all ran downstairs after Fran. Old Martin, the butler, was in the lead and they saw him pause at the library door. "They've got him!" he said brokenly.

When Cherry reached the door, Martin was on his knees, and the body of his master, shot through the heart, was resting limply against his shoulder.

Days went by. There was a dreadful silence in the house; a feeling of emptiness, even though it was filled with people. Old Mrs. Marshbanks murmuring to Fran in Fran's room; Amy tearful and frightened in hers; Cherry coming and going with a colorless, shocked face; Gregory Marshbanks, tall and good-looking and serious, home from college. Molly and May, the two upstairs servants. Helene the maid, the Chinese cook and his helper, Martin the butler, Rousseau the chauffeur, these were all there.

And besides there were officers of the law who had opened doors and locked boxes, taken their posts gravely and regularly at the entrances, checking everyone who went out and in.

Stamped forever upon Cherry's memory, upon her inner vision as upon the minds and souls of them all, was the picture of that first moment of tragedy. The picture of the library, softly lighted by the great desk lamp, of the revolver that the judge had shown Cherry that very afternoon, lying on the carpet a dozen feet from the desk, of the body in Martin's arms.

Judge Marshbanks had fallen back across his own chair, had slipped to the floor; it had been his voice they had first heard, shouting for help; Cherry recognized it as she remembered that dreadful sound in the silent night.

Since then the place had been in full possession of the authorities. The family, the servants were being eternally summoned for questions.

Fran, always pale, but now with great circles under her eyes, had gone into a strange frenzy of terror at first, had answered the first questions of the police with an uncertainty, an irrelevance and inaccuracy that had given others beside Cherry a fearful suspicion that she had something to hide. But presently she had seemed to grow calmer and more coherent, and had repeated to everyone's satisfaction her simple story. She had come home from a Burlingame party with her husband at about midnight. She had felt restless and headachy that evening, and Judge Marshbanks, who always was glad to get home at a reasonable hour, had been delighted to bring her back before the party was well under way.

The judge, her story went on, had then gone into the library for a talk with his niece, Amy Marshbanks, and Fran had gone to bed. She had heard nothing until his dreadful cry of "Help!" had rung through the house.

Amy was a poor witness in her own behalf, crying bitterly, and breaking out with frightened self-defense with every word. She had asked Uncle Jud to talk to her that night—no, she wouldn't say about what—no, he hadn't gotten angry at her nor she at him—yes, it had agitated her a good deal—she had cried—yes, she had said, "Then I'll kill myself!" as Martin testified. But Martin, going about to put out the lights, knew that she had gone upstairs before he spoke to Uncle, before Uncle said to him, "I've a little business to finish here, Martin. I'll put out the lights!"

"Had the announcement of your prospective marriage anything to do with this conversation, Miss Marshbanks?" Amy had been asked. She had hesitated, had answered. "Not exactly." Amy was twenty-one now, and society had been duly notified, through the press, of her intention to become the third Countess Constantino.

On the other hand, the murdered man's mother had proved an incomparable witness. She had answered questions thoughtfully, evenly, not wincing away from even the most appalling details.

New Unit Uses Oil Instead of Gas For Autos

CANTON — (INS) — Claiming to have found an invaluable aid to national defense, David Meyer, Canton inventor, received a patent from the U. S. Patent office in Washington on a fuel unit which enables the ordinary automobile to use any kind of oil or other combustible liquid in place of gasoline.

In test performances, Meyer declares the car ran and performed with greater speed and power than when equipped with ordinary gas and carburetor.

By substituting lighter material Meyer believes the instrument can be adapted for use in airplane engines.

LIQUOR PROFITS

HARRISBURG — (INS) — Pennsylvania's state-operated retail liquor store system in the seven years since repeal of prohibition has rolled up profits of nearly $125,000,000. Profits and taxes obtained from the monopoly—largest in the nation are used to provide relief for the needy and pensions for the blind and for mothers' aid.

This 'Test Tube' Calf Not Snooty About Heritage

POESTENKILL, N. Y.—(INS)—A calf owned by John H. Hosler, isn't a bit snooty toward the rest of the herd, although it has the distinction of being the first "test tube" calf to be born in this section of the county.

The calf was born recently to a Holstein cow in Mr. Hosler's herd. It's father is Carnation Governor Prince, a Holstein bull in the herd of B. J. Morrison, St. Lawrence county.

The experiment was conducted under the supervision of veterinarians, who reported considerable interest in artificial breeding by dairymen.

NEW ARMY TANK OFFERS COMFORT

CHICAGO—(U.P.)—No longer will the army tank take seven soldiers, mix well, stir, and shake like a cocktail. The new M-3 tank, recently designed, will change the recipe.

The men will sit on cushions much like the modern bar stool and wear latex-cushioned crash helmets to further prevent face injuries and body bumps, the 18-foot tanks will be lined with 100 pounds of air-cell latex sponge. The gun turrets, hatches, recoil guards and ammunition clips will be covered with padding.

The comfort, however, is created only for those inside. Outside, observers will face 25 tons of steel with 75 mm. cannon and machine guns mounted.

CLOSE AT LUCAS

LUCAS—All business houses in Lucas will close at noon on Wednesdays during the months of July and August according to an announcement made today by the Chamber of Commerce.

Has Profitable Sideline Making 'Corn Jewelry'

SANDUSKY— (INS) — Making jewelry out of corn kernels is proving a fashionable sideline for Mrs. Ray Tillinghast.

Raising corn as a hobby, Mrs. Tillinghast specialized in Aztec ceremonial corn, the kernels of which are brilliantly colored. Fascinated by the glowing colors of the individual grains, she made herself a necklace which resembled carnelian, jasper, agate, chalcedony and moonstone.

While attending a lecture she wore her necklace and immediately became the center of attraction. When she returned home she had orders for two large Cleveland stores for the corn jewelry. Her only worry is that her corn supply will not hold out.

SELF-SUPPORTING

LINCOLN, Neb.—(INS)—Half of the men students and one-third of the co-eds at the University of Nebraska are either entirely or partially self-supporting. Student employment bureau records revealed that of the 2,916 men enrolled, 465 are earning their own way and 1,002 others are partially self-supporting. Of the 1,703 women, 116 are entirely dependent upon outside work and 448 defray part of their expenses.

MONEY TROUBLES CAUSE DIVORCE

MIAMI, Fla.—(U.P.)—Money, or rather the lack of it, is the most common cause of marital troubles, according to Circuit Judge Paul D. Barns, of Miami, and he should know, for last year he handled 4,000 divorce cases.

"Willingness to live within income is the most important thing I can say to young married couples," Judge Barnes said. "The tendency to exceed income seems to be a fashion of the times, but it's probably the most disastrous habit married couple scan fall into."

Judge Barnes said he believed Florida's five-year-old 90-day residence law for those seeking divorces had made the state "a southern Reno." Figures bear out his belief for divorces filed in Miami during 1940 outnumbered those in the Nevada city.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go
The liver should pour 2 pints of bile juice into your bowels every day. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest. It may just decay in the bowels. Then gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.
It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these 2 pints of bile flowing freely to make you feel "up and up." Get a package today. Take as directed. Amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. 10¢ and 25¢

MOCK WEDDING GIVEN AT PARTY FOR BRIDE

Miss Thelma Southward Entertained By Misses Cole and Wolford Tuesday Evening; Guests Honor Bride-to-Be With Shower.

CONTINUING the series of pre-nuptial parties for Miss Thelma Southward, bride-elect of Herbert Palmer of Shelby, was the social event given Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Elizabeth Cole, 394 West Fifth street. Miss Helen Wolford was the associate hostess. The feature of the evening's entertainment was a mock wedding. Joyce Cowger sang "I Love You Truly" and Joan Cowger officiated for the service with Joan Freeland acting as bride and Jean Daugherty as bridegroom.

Later cards were the diversion with prizes being won by Miss Mary Bishop and Miss June Miles, who gave them to the honoree. Miss Southward was presented with a bridal bouquet by the little bride, Miss Freland. The bouquet concealed directions for finding the shower gifts from the guests.

When refreshments were served at a late hour daisies were used as an attractive centerpiece. Green and yellow was the color scheme for the table decorations.

Recently a party was given for Miss Southward and Mrs. Edward Dune at the "Woods" near Ashland by members of Beta Kappa Tau sorority. Members of the club presented the honorees with corsages and gifts of crystal. During the evening bridge was in play at six tables with prizes going to Miss Betty Baki, Miss Rose Huck and Miss Ruth Schuck. Luncheon was served at small tables centered with garden flowers.

At the close of the evening the honorees were given a miscellaneous shower. Hostesses for this party were the Misses Marjorie Swanger, Ann Schmidt, Alma Smith, Mrs. Paul Scott, Miss Betty Rettig, Mrs. Myron Hilligoss and Miss Eleanor Star. Mrs. Dune is the former Marjorie Ruhlen whose marriage was solemnized May 30.

Fan Pleated

Fan pleating is a fashion favorite with women. Here Hedda Hopper, radio commentator, wears a honey beige crepe frock, fan-pleated, and a sailor trimmed with red birds.

D. of I. Makes Plans for Party

Members of the D. of I. held their regular social meeting in their club rooms in the Bird building Tuesday evening. Bridge and pinochle were the diversions of the evening. Auction prizes were won by Mrs. James Herlihy and Mrs. D. L. Maxwell; contract, Mrs. Joseph Woerth and Miss Marie Hecht and pinochle, Miss Agnes Wehinger. Mrs. Joseph Seibert was awarded the door prize.

Luncheon was served at the close of the meeting at small tables decorated with garden flowers. Miss Martha Grasbaugh and her committee were in charge of arrangements for this meeting. Plans were made for the bridge tournament-dinner which is being held Monday. Mrs. Maxwell and Mrs. B. J. Milum are in charge of arrangements for the dinner party. The next regular business session will be held July 8 at the Bird building.

FAMILY REUNION.

Descendents of Philip Wappner held their annual family reunion recently at the home of Philip Wappner, jr., South Main street road. Fifty were in attendance. Following the dinner, which was served at 6:30 p. m., a short business session and election of officers was conducted. M. W. Wappner was elected president and H. M. Wappner was named secretary-treasurer. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Wappner and family and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Goeber, Springfield, were the only out-of-town guests present.

Mrs. R. R. Martin Speaks at Meeting

Mrs. R. R. Martin was the guest speaker Tuesday evening at the meeting of the Triple L class of the Central Methodist church. Mrs. Louis Rahn, Woodland road, was hostess at her home to 20 members. Garden flowers decorated the home. Mrs. Martin used as the subject of her paper, "Dr. Carver and His Life." The devotional period was in the form of a question box and led by Miss Mary Ward. Using as the theme, "Stewardship" the group talked on "What Constitutes Tithing?"

When refreshments were served the hostess was assisted by Mrs. E. C. Jenkins. Plans were made to hold a picnic meeting on July 29 at the cottage of Miss Ellen Beach.

SOCIETY & CLUB

Rose Show Proves Of Interest to Many at Program

When the monthly Garden Center program was given last evening at the headquarters, Public Library, the rose show proved of unusual interest to the 150 in attendance. The show in which 150 roses were entered was under the direction of the Buckeye Garden club, which had been in charge of the center this month. Mrs. Gene Zediker was general chairman. Melvin Wyant of Mentor, rose specialist, was the guest speaker for this meeting which was open to the public.

Blue, red and white ribbons were awarded for the winners in the flower exhibit and judging was by John Kullman, local horticulturist. Winners were as follows: class one—white roses, Mrs. York Dirlam, Mrs. Oliver Henkel and Mrs. Jesse LaDow; class two—yellow roses, Charles Nail, first and second place and Mrs. Franklin Bissman; class three—salmon roses, Mrs. Ephraim Brown and Mrs. W. G. Moore; class four—apricot roses, Mrs. Frank Bissman and Mr. Swisher, first place, Mrs. LaDow; class five — pink roses, Mrs. Milton Doolittle and Mrs. Tom Ford, first place, Mrs. Ephraim Brown and Charles Nail; class six—American Beauty roses, Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Doolittle; class seven — red roses, Charles Nail, Miss Lillian Dickson and James Dickson and Mrs. W. G. Moore.

Mr. Wyant gave a most interesting and informative talk, presenting suggestions and tricks for showing roses, and giving practical suggestions for raising better roses. He also told when to plant, how to mulch, water, cut, prune, feed, spray or dust, preparation of rose bed and how to cultivate. Also of help to garden lovers was the list he presented of 25 roses suitable for growing in this climate by the amateur gardener.

Closing his talk he showed 75 varieties of roses which he had brought with him.

The Garden Center which was only opened a few months ago is steadily gaining popularity and more interest is being shown by people in all walks of life. The service of the center is free to all.

Due to the vacation periods during July and August there will be no speakers at the Center, but programs will be resumed in the fall. Members of the Cottage Garden club will preside at the headquarters during July. Although the Center is open to the public at all times when the Library is available, representatives of the Mansfield Garden clubs are present only on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons.

Natural Look Desired By Modern Girl

By MME. QUI VIVE

Know what? Woman is furling her complexion colors. With white skin, red lips, and blue eye shadows she has, in the past, looked like a spangled banner. 'Nuff of that.

It is fitting and proper that the feminine face should at long-last be naturalized. Now, do not misunderstand the mean of that statement. The old powder pad still waves, the rouge pad is on the job, the lipstick is at work and, for the merry evening, eye shadows are making the pretty dearhearts look bewitching and mysterious. It is only that we are becoming discreet and adroit, getting effects that do not blind the public eye. We're learning how to employ artifice to best advantage, and goodness knows it is time for that idea to take root.

The bizarre and the exotic in the form of fire engine blushes, flaming lips and crayoned eyebrows are moving into that shadowy place that is the graveyard of beauty fads. Gaudy makeup has become tiresome; it always made the older women look weary and brittle. We're getting back to first principles, supplying ourselves with coloring that Mama Nature neglested to give us, not going beyond reasonable bounds.

For the poppy cheek bloom the modest wild rose tint is substituted. The Chinese red lipstick has given place to tints that carry a blue cast, which imparts a more natural effect.

Among the new powders you will find the most delicate flesh tints, so Victorian that they make one feel old-fashioned. Apply one, and see what it does to you They make the skin look soft and velvety. The Flesh-and-golden fluff stuff is for the athletic type; they have vitality, suggest fresh air and healthy animation. If powder supplies a vivid rosiness rouge can be dispensed with, though the girl who is naturally pale will probably cling to her synthetic blushes.

Lips should look moist; new lipsticks take care of that matter. Eyelids should carry a shine instead of the dull finish to make the eyes look sparkling. On cosmetic counters you will find special eyelid creams that act as an insurance against crowsfeet.

When using the lipstick, aply a light film. Widened lips are out. You can, if you wish, dip an orangewood stick in the lip smear, sketch an outline, then fill in.

Eye shadows are engaging when one is togged up in pretty draperies for the evening party. Apply along the edge of the eyelid, let the pigment do a fade-away as it ascends toward the eyebrow. You have a wide choice of colors but the mauves, greens and blues are considered the happiest selections.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"But first let me get this straight," he went on, and his manner was suddenly that of the man of affairs and action, ready for any emergency. "You need not speak, just nod your head or shake it, as I put these questions to you."

"You want this unconscious man taken down to your father's hideaway, I take it?"

I nodded my head.

"Your father's men have an armored car near the entrance of the hotel?"

I nodded again.

"And you want him gotten out, if possible, in a plausible manner, so that if anyone chances to see him leave the hotel, it will appear a natural happening?"

Once more I nodded, and he strode toward the inner door.

"If Milner knocks while I'm gone, just let him stand there," he said, "but I'll probably be back before he gets up here. Incidentally, my dear Madge, I am grateful for your thoughtfulness — I know it must have been yours — in concealing that unconscious gangster from my wife's eyes."

He was gone upon the word, and Olga came over to me and put gentle hands against my cheek.

"My poor Madge!" she said. "If there were only something I could do for you. But when this matter is disposed of — and that won't take Philip long — you'll see that we shall devote all our attention to you."

I smiled gratefully at her, and decided that I should be glad indeed of skilled ministration to my bruised throat

Gus Will Obey Only Madge.

It was but a brief interval before the owner of the Lansfield came back, the expression on his face a struggle between offended dignity and amusement.

"There's a man out there named Gus," he said, "who declares he'll take no orders, nor start doing anything until you give the word and tell him and his men just what to do. Will you go out there, or will you have him come in here?"

For answer I rose, took my pad and pencil, and gestured to the door. Philip put his hand beneath my arm, but at the door I shook my head with an apologetic smile, and went through it alone.

"Sorry to trouble you, Mis' Graham," Gus said with troubled mien, "but we got no business taking orders from anybody except the Chief, or somebody with authority from him"

"Thank you, Gus," I wrote on my pad. "You're perfectly right. But Mr. Veritzen is the owner of this hotel, and he and the manager will plan with you how best to get this man out of here without anybody seeing him."

Gus read the note and nodded gravely.

"That's okay then," he said. "He says he has a good scheme, but we didn't want to listen to it unless you said so. And now, what do you want us to do with this bird when we get him out of here into the car?"

I wrote rapidly on my pad again.

"Have you looked to see if he has any serious injury?"

Gus read the note and nodded vigorously.

"Sure thing," he assured me. "We're not taking any chances we don't have to. He's breathing and all right, but he won't know what hit him for quite some time."

Gangster to Go to Hideaway.

"Then," I wrote on my pad again, "tie him securely, gag him, if you think it's safe, get him out of here according to the plan Mr. Veritzen and the manager will give you; then take him down to my father's hideaway and guard him closely until my father comes down there. Take good care of him, get the usual physician if it's necessary, and do not question him at all. But—be sure he does not get away."

Help Child Enjoy Being Obedient

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D

We considered the problem of the mother, with domestic help, whose tot of 19 months kept her busy all day amusing him. We had only part of her story. Here is more of it:

"He will not play with his toys. All during the day attempts are made to interest him in his playthings but these attempts are constantly interrupted with his climbing of the chairs and tables, opening cupboard drawers, turning lamps on and off, pulling out electric cords, turning on and off the stove control switches and dozens of similar antics. He has been scolded and spanked repeatedly for all of these things and has received explanations for most of them. With this going on all day I find it impossible to correct every misdoing. As it is the little fellow never goes to bed with the memory of a happy day. More often than not my husband comes home to find me with my self-control shattered and in a very unhappy state of mind."

Must Understand "No."

In offering a constructive program for training this child to amuse himself with playthings, we cautioned that for this program to work he would first have to learn permanently to avoid certain forbidden acts and objects—to learn the meaning of the precious word NO. This training would seem to be even more essential to the mother who must do all the housework than to the mother who has abundant domestic help.

Therefore, I advised the mother to decide on two or three things the child must never do and then consistently give him instant pain (by spanking) without a single exception until these specific things were permanently, automatically avoided. In the meanwhile she should merely intercept him in other things, aiming eventually to have trained him to avoid all the definite acts that are dangerous and destructive.

It was explained to her that punishment for a forbidden act would be most effective when the child found pleasure in doing something acceptable, and that the more of such desirable activity he enjoyed the less often and persistently would he do the forbidden act.

She was urged to read to him, say nursery rhymes to him, sing lullabyes to him, answer all his questions and express enjoyment over his creations however crude.

And so with a few definite things he can never do without immediate discomfort, hundreds of others he will do with great pleasure, and with the mother keeping herself busy for definite brief periods, leaving the child to make for himself, this child can learn to be happy, safe and self-reliant.

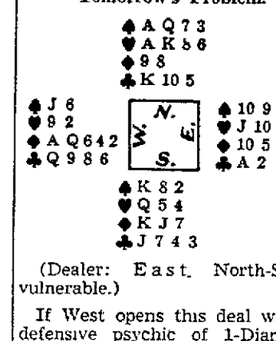
"The Authority on Authorities"

SEE THROUGH HIS PLAN

Much of the very finest defense comes from detecting what the declarer is likely to try, and then keeping him from doing it. Sometimes this requires the keenest of card-reading by both partners, combined with perfect cooperation between them at various stages of the journey through the hand. If either makes anything but the exactly right move at any critical spot, then all the rest of the good work is wasted.



(Dealer: East: North-South vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 ♣
1 ♦	1 ♠	2 ♦	Pass
Pass	3 ♣	Pass	3 ♠

Here was an extremely tight hand of the kind duplicate tournament players love, with Lee Hazen, national individual masters champion, in the East and his wife in the West beating skillful work by South.

The diamond K was followed by a small one to the J, and the first crisis was at hand. If Mr. Hazen now led his diamond A, the defense which developed would have been impossible, as will be shown later. Instead, he returned the heart 2 to the Q, and South also took his heart A, then led to the spade K and ruffed dummy's last diamond. The spade A dropped the defenders' last trumps, and a club to the K lost to the A.

Right here Mrs. Hazen rose to the occasion. She calculated that, if South had the club J with his four shown by the bidding, he would have played it instead of the K. So her husband had it, as a singleton now. Hence a lead of the club Q would drop it and set up the dummy's 10. Lead of a heart, apparently the natural lead, would enable South to ruff out the last heart and lead a club. If she let the J win this, her husband would be end-played, obliged to lead a red card and furnish a ruff and discard. If, however, she won it, overtaking the J, she would set up the 10.

Only one lead remained — the right one—a small club. Mr. Hazen won it with the J and had a heart left for exit, declarer ruffing. Now there was no way for South to avoid losing the setting trick to the club Q.

A bit of study will show you that, if Mr. Hazen had returned his diamond A to the third trick, the declarer would have been able to time the play so that he could have wound up with the combination end-play which he later strained to develop in vain.

Tomorrow's Problem.

(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable.)

If West opens this deal with a defensive psychic of 1-Diamond, North doubles, South bids 1-No Trump and winds up in 3-No Trumps, what should West lead?

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, June 26.

A particularly lively day, with much stirring of a thrilling and surprising character materializing in both the private and business life. There should be quite unforeseen profits as well as pleasure, with all affairs moving under unusually high pressure and constructively. However, this tension if carried to excess may result in some features born of enmity or jealousy. But generally there is stability, with increased possessions and finances, enhanced popularity in business as well as social prestige.

Those whose birthday it is may be assured of a year of much initiative and tension, with much enterprise and energy resulting in unexpected profits and productiveness. Increased real possessions as well as finances are to be the reward for aggressive and well-directed attack, but this should not be carried to excess as there are hints of jealousy and enmity. Be guided by the intuitions and aspirations as well as logic, and this warming, expanding and happy influence will pervade the social, romantic and domestic life also.

A child born on this day while being temperamental, aggressive and high powered in action may also have deep and constructive understanding of its affairs, which should thrive and bring riches as well as pleasure in life.

Ten Chief Causes of Traffic Accidents In Mansfield: No. 1, "The Drunken Driver" . . .

The last drink—and one too many! The faithful friend urges his woozy companion to go home. Successful at last, but why does the "friend" permit this drunken man to drive? Why not park the car and call a taxi? It is much safer for everybody concerned.

But no! "Sure, ol' pal, I c'n drive," says the drunk, and little short of physical force can dissuade him. For, being drunk, he is far more confident than if sober, far more confident and more reckless.

Sodden brain, heavy foot. Up goes the speed, 20, 30, 40, 70 — and through the crowded city streets.

Inevitable? Perhaps not, but highly possible. More accidents in (name of city) are caused by drunken driving than appear on court records because of difficulty in proving the charge. The worst of it is that the innocent suffer along with the guilty. Death takes the wheel from the drunken driver. Washington Star Staff Photos, with co-operation of American Automobile Association.

Ten Chief Causes of Traffic Accidents in Mansfield: No. 2, "Jaywalking" . . .

Harmless enough is the chance meeting of these two young women, apparently homeward bound after a shopping trip.

Anxious to take advantage of the opportunity to chat for a while, the diminutive blond leaves the sidewalk and starts over, intent on reaching her friend and glancing neither right nor left as she walks rapidly toward the other side.

Bearing down on his unintended victim before he has time to realize it, the motorist slams on the brakes in an attempt to avoid the collision. A quick stop is not quick enough and packages fly as the pedestrian topples.

Thrown over the fender and hurled to the street unconscious, the woman is immediately surrounded by a throng—a typical scene on (name of city) streets, where pedestrians are killed and injured through careless walking.—Washington Star Staff Photos, with co-operation of the American Automobile Association.

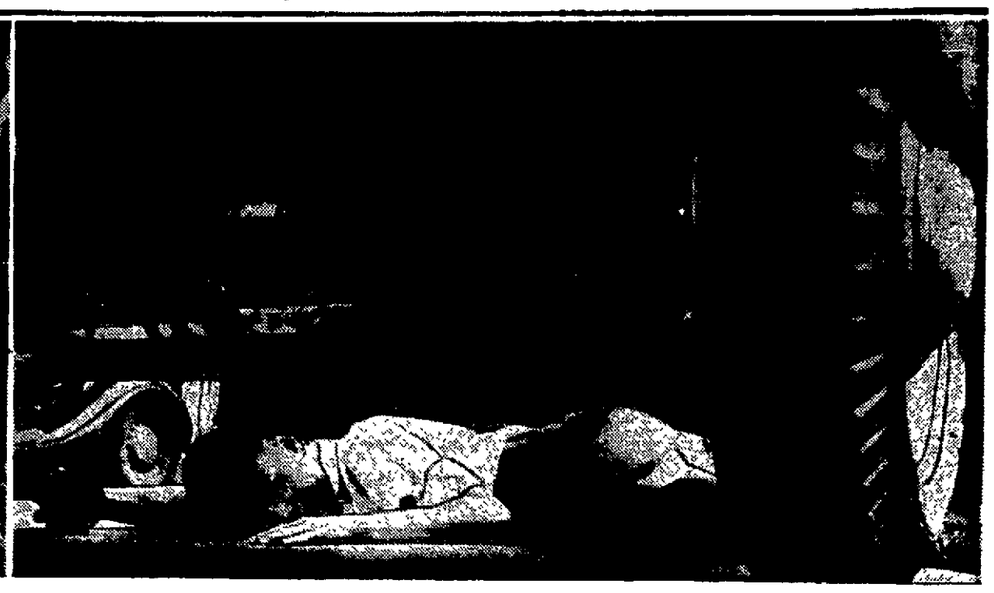
Ten Chief Causes of Traffic Accidents in Mansfield: No. 3, "Playing in the Streets"

A game of "catch" on the sidewalk suddenly takes a dangerous turn when the ball eludes one of the players and bounds into the street. Many times before, perhaps, the ball has been retrieved without mishap, so the boy takes out after it—heedless of anything else.

Too late—only after he succeeds in overtaking the ball—does the lad become aware of his peril. The approaching automobile, even though proceeding within the speed limit, cannot stop in an instant, and the bumper rams against the boy.



And another name is added on either the fatality or casualty side of the ledger, which has been filled with pathetic rapidity. Many children have been killed and injured in traffic mishaps that resulted because the streets were used as playgrounds.—Washington Star Staff Photos, with co-operation of the American Automobile Association.

POLAROID DAY GLASSES

Give You the View Without the Glare

Through Polaroid Day Glasses, reflected glare is greatly reduced, but the details of the view stay bright and crisp. You see clearly . . . in comfort.
Polaroid Day Glasses automatically choose between useful light and blinding reflections from highways, water, ice and other surfaces. At the beach they dull the path to the sun. Behind the wheel of your car they wipe glare from the highway, let you drive in open-eyed comfort. When you go fishing, they eliminate reflections.
Try Polaroid Day Glasses yourself. Compare them with the finest conventional sun glasses you know. Try both of them against glare. Let your eyes decide.

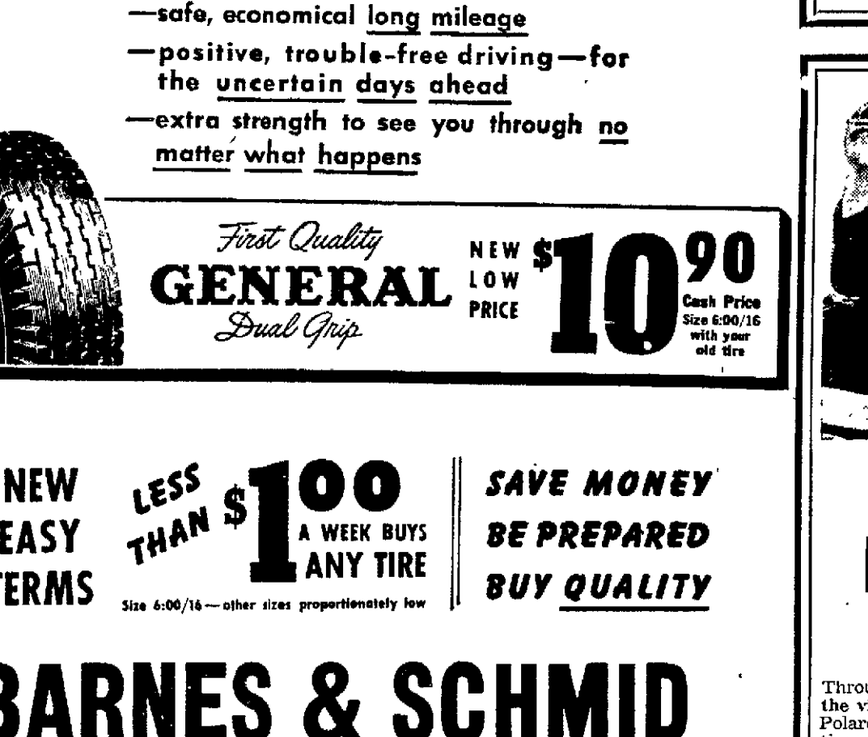
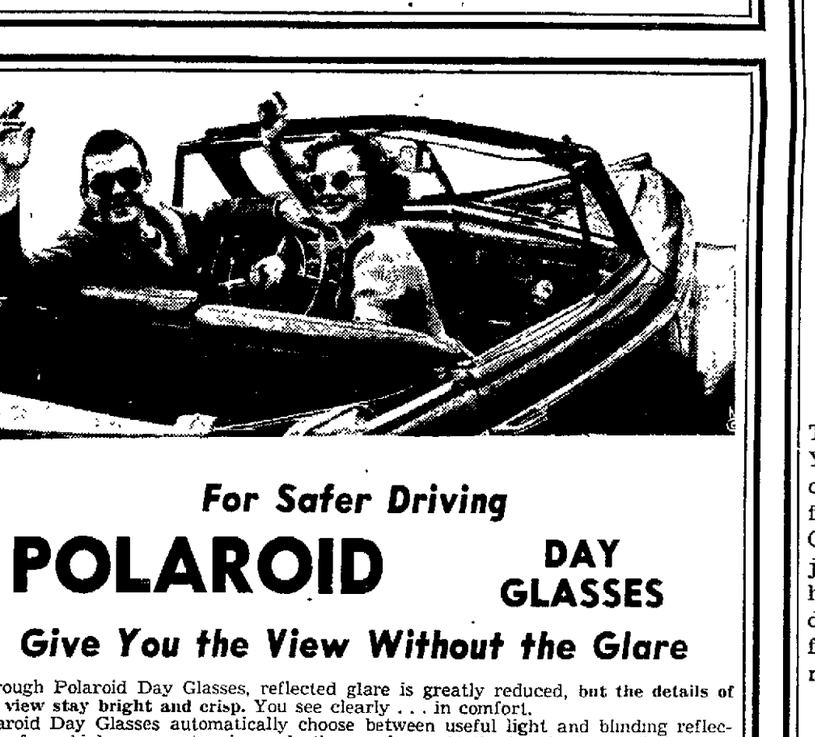
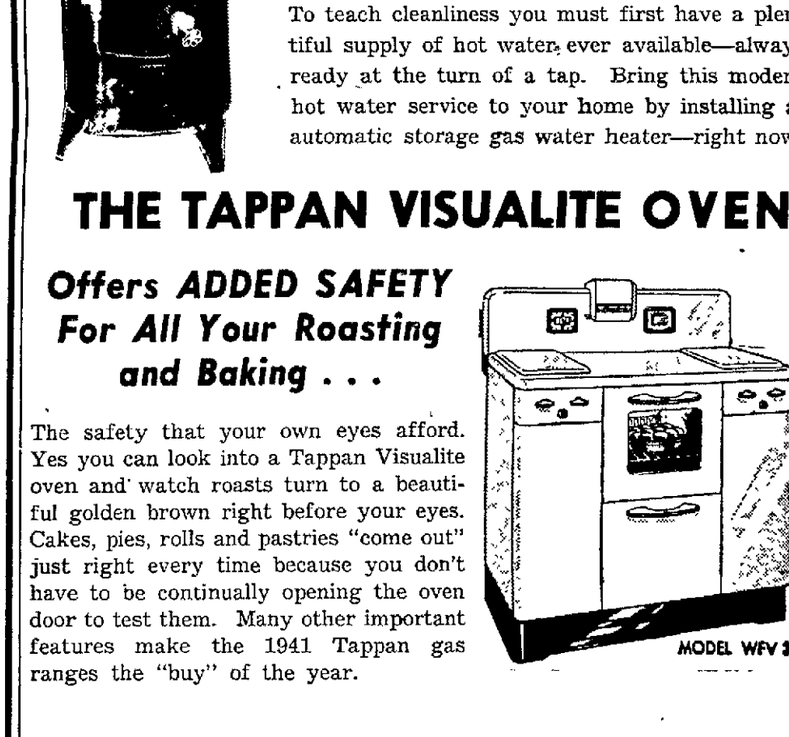
Ten Chief Causes of Traffic Accidents in Mansfield: No. 4, "Careless Backing" . . .



Although not approved as a safe practice, crossing a one-way street in the middle of the block seems, at first glance, to be all right in the case of this man, who appears alert for approaching automobiles as he leaves the curb.



Danger, however, comes from an unexpected direction, when a parked car, with a "dead spot" preventing the driver from seeing the pedestrian, starts backing while the victim-to-be is in the middle.—Washington Star Staff Photos, with the co-operation of the American Automobile Association.



Pinned by the bumpers and thrown violently against the front of the stationary machine, the pedestrian is lucky if he comes off with minor injuries.

Ten Chief Causes of Traffic Accidents in Mansfield: No. 5, "Swinging Out of Line" . . .

The possibility of having to "brake down" in a hurry apparently does not occur to this motorist as he swings out of line on a wet street to pass a slower moving car near an intersection.

Simple enough was the passing maneuver, but it took too much of the driver's attention. What he did not see in time was the truck coming into his path at the intersection.

Slippery-asphalt and rubber make a treacherous combination as the driver of the sedan sets his brakes and goes into a spin, the automobile narrowly averting a crash with the truck.

Added impetus rolls the sedan against a tree.—Washington Star Staff Photos, with co-operation of American Automobile Association.

Ten Chief Causes of Traffic Accidents in Mansfield: No. 6, "Walking Against the Signal . . .

Disregarding the "go" signal for vehicular traffic, the young woman in the foreground has left the curb and started across the street, assured in her own mind that nobody's going to run her down.

Sure enough, the drivers of the first two cars see her and allow her to go through, but coming up from the far side—his vision obscured by the other machines—another motorist is forced to stop suddenly.

The distance is too short, however, and another tragedy results—similar in circumstances to those "Walking Against the Signal."—Washington Star Staff Photos, with co-operation of the American Automobile Association.

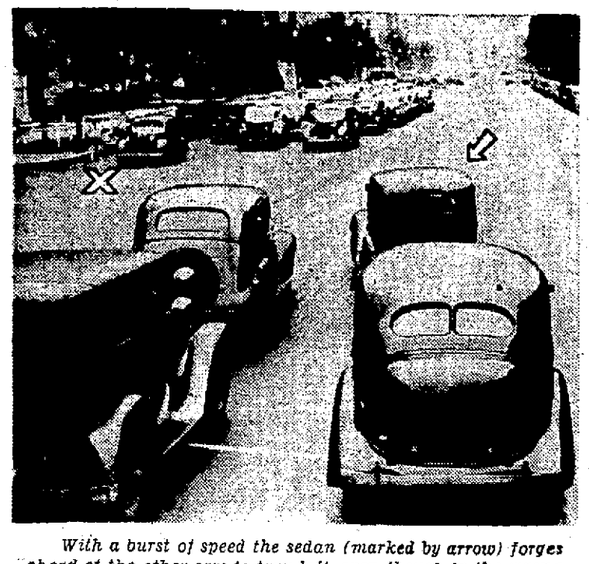
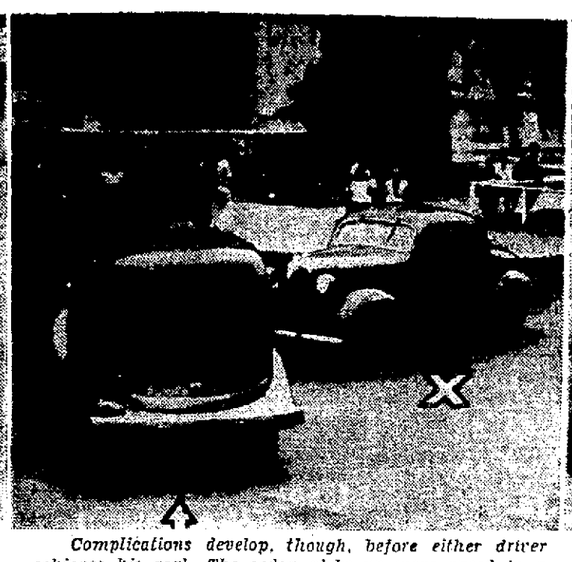
Ten Chief Causes of Traffic Accidents in Mansfield: No. 7, "Improper Turns" . . .



With a burst of speed the sedan (marked by arrow) forges ahead of the other cars to turn left, even though in the wrong lane for such a maneuver. Coming from the opposite direction, the coupe (marked by X) also gets off fast.

It's a race, with the sedan's driver determined not to be held up in making his turn by the flow of traffic from the other way and the coupe's operator expecting clear sailing.



Complications develop, though, before either driver achieves his goal. The sedan picks up more speed in a desperate attempt to avoid what seems destined to be a certain crash and the coupe's brakes scream.

And this is the result—the sedan overturned and the coupe wrecked. What about the drivers?—Washington Star Staff Photos, with co-operation of the American Automobile Association.

Think Safety, Always, ALL Ways—

FORTUNATELY, the practice of safety knows no age limits, involves no creeds or policies, calls for no heroics. The practice of SAFETY does require unceasing vigilance, never-ending alertness and the liberal use of common sense. SAFETY can be practiced in the home, in the factory and on the public thoroughfare.

WE AMERICANS have been blessed with an abundance of practically everything we need,—but we've grown careless with this abundance. We burn thousands of homes, and hundreds of lives are snuffed out because we fail to practice SAFETY. Thousands of persons are killed each year on the public highways, too often because some irresponsible person was behind the steering wheel.

DEATH stalked into more than 96,500 homes in 1940 in this country because there were so many persons content to excuse fatal accidents with an "It's too bad, but accidents will happen!"

BUT there are solutions to the problem of SAFETY. Accidents don't happen when we take the proper precautions. Carelessness, is by far, the greatest contributor to fatal accidents, and we can abolish carelessness! If every man, woman and child will accept the responsibility of practicing SAFETY daily we can reduce this horrible loss of life.

SO WESTINGHOUSE earnestly asks your help in practicing SAFETY, "every day in every way."

Ten Chief Causes of Traffic Accidents in Mansfield: No. 8, "Failing to Give Right of Way"

The fact the car on his right already has moved into the intersection does not deter the driver of this coupe from trying to get across first.

Tossing caution aside, the operator of the coupe speeds up a bit, figuring that by swerving he can "safely" cut in front of the other machine and thus save a few seconds.

What frequently happens is this . . .—Washington Star Staff Photos, with co-operation of American Automobile Association.

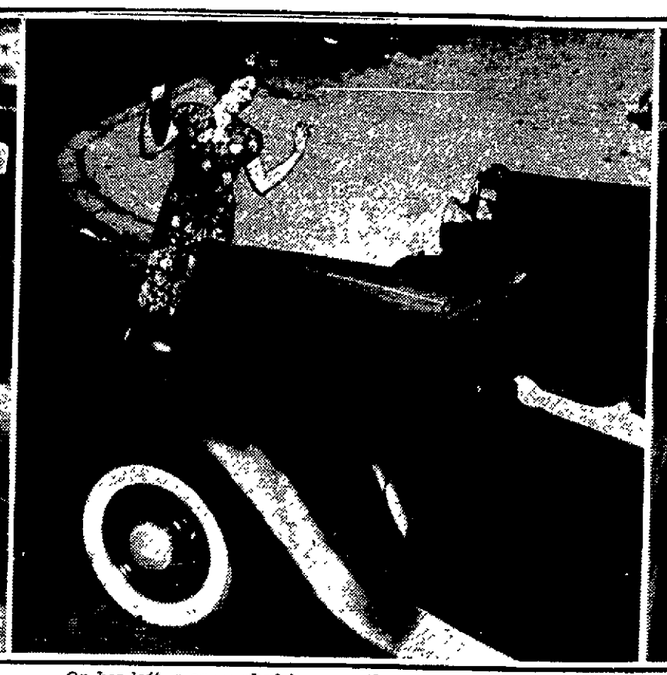
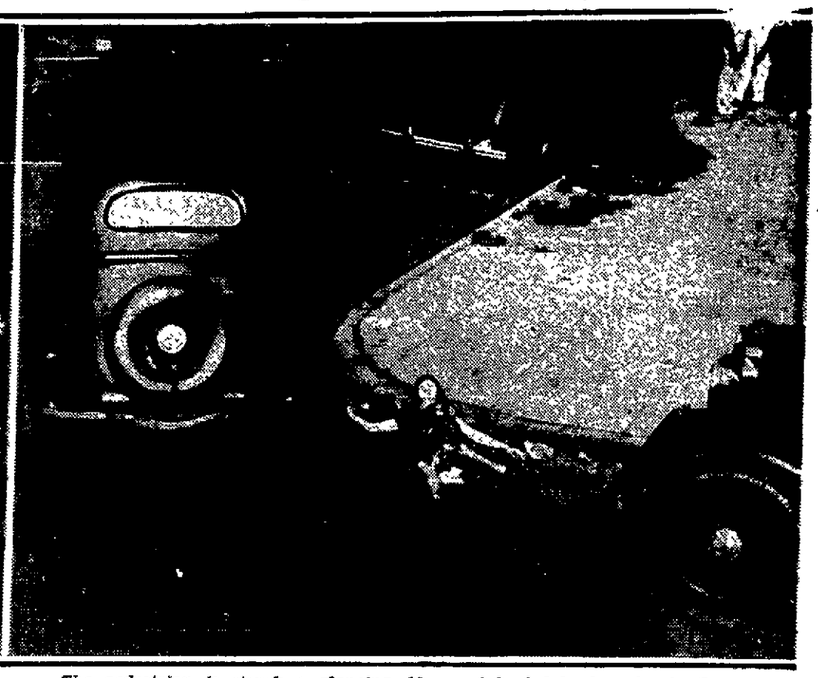
Although it's about as safe as walking through "No Man's Land," this young woman looks the wrong way as she steps from the curb of an intersection not controlled by traffic lights.



On her left, a car parked too near the corner does not help matters much—serving to cut off the view of an approaching motorist until the woman walks directly in front of his machine.

A blast of the horn and hurried application of the brakes are to no avail.



The pedestrian is struck a glancing blow and hurled backward into the gutter. This is typical of hundreds of crashes of this kind.—Washington Star Staff Photos, with co-operation of the American Automobile Association.

THREATEN NEW COAL STRIKE IN SOUTHERN MINES

Workers Get Orders as Talks With Operators Come To Abrupt End.

WASHINGTON — A strike of United Mine Workers in the southern Appalachian field threatened today after contract negotiations with southern operators ended abruptly without an agreement.

The strike would affect mines in Virginia, southern West Virginia, eastern Kentucky, and northern Tennessee which employ 150,000 of the industry's 400,000 workers. Northern mines are working under an agreement signed last week and would not be affected.

L. T. Putnam, Beckley, W. Va., chief negotiator for the operators, announced the decision to halt negotiations and said that further depletion of the nation's coal supplies "will be a crime and nothing short of sabotage."

The strike call was ordered by a 150-man policy commitee of the UMW. The miners will continue work until July 2, then take a five-day vacation. If an agreement has not been reached by July 7, the miners will not return to the pits.

Neither side to the controversy would disclose the point on which the negotiations had deadlocked. Southern operators have agreed to a national mediation board recommendation for elimination of the 40-cents a day differential which has been granted southern over northern operators since 1933 and to an industry-wide base scale of $7 a day.

Stumbling block in the negotiations appeared to be the refusal of Kentucky's Harlan county operators to sign an agreement. Putnam said that the other 12 operators were willing to sign, but that UMW President John L. Lewis had insisted on an all-or-nothing arrangement.

Putnam expressed the hope that an agreement could be reached before the miners begin the strike July 7. Industry representatives were returning to their homes today, but were subject to recall by the negotiators. The union said it was ready to resume negotiations whenever the operators desired.

Putnam conceded that defense industries will be hard-pressed for coal supplies this winter.

Mansfield fishermen can take it from Sales Tax Examiner Cal Leonard and a friend, Charles Minor of Loudonville, that fishing licenses must be worn in a conspicuous spot outside their clothing. Leonard, who wore his on his shirt, and then covered it up when he put on a jacket because it was raining, was fined $10 and costs in a justice of peace court in Millersburg. Minor, who had his only partially covered by a jacket, has his case pending. Fishing at Long lake, they were told by a game warden that the "law is the law" and there are no excuses, even if licenses are in their possession. (Leonard caught two fish—little ones.)

ASKS NATION TO COLLECT SCRAP ITEMS

Starts Civilian Defense Drive With Request For Everything From Pots To Golf Clubs.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Mayor Fiorella LaGuardia got going on his first assignment to duty as civilian defense co-ordinator today with a characteristically vigorous and unexpected call for a nation-wide collection of scrap aluminum.

Without bothering to prepare an advance copy of his address, the New York executive broadcast a plea last night to citizens for contributions of everything from old pots and pans to washing machines and golf clubs, and set a goal of 20,000,000 pounds—enough aluminum, he said, to provide for 2,000 fighter planes.

State, county and city officials, aided by civic, patriotic, and youth organizations, will head up the campaign. Contributions will be called in on July 21.

LaGuardia predicted the aluminum drive would be "a great deal of fun."

"I am asking all the mothers and all the housekeepers and all the hotels and restaurants and in fact everybody to look around now and make an inventory of the old aluminum utensils in their homes or factories or hotels that they can part with," he said.

He urged organizations interested in participating to contact state and local defense councils and "report for duty." State governors will be asked to direct organizational setups with the OPM acting as liaison to arrange final details of collection.

Clevelanders already are on their way in a drive for old aluminum.

Following LaGuardia's announcement in Washington last night 54 American Legion Posts in Cuyahoga county swung into line with plans for collecting the metal.

County Engineer John O. McWilliams yesterday offered a $25 prize for the person who brings the most aluminum to his annual employes' picnic tomorrow.

The greater Cleveland lodge, Loyal Order of Moose, arranged with the local office of the American guild of variety artists for fre etalent to be presented in a 25-act vaudeville show at the lodge rooms Tuesday night, with a piece of old aluminum as the price of admission.

BUYS SUPPLIES FOR ELECTIONS

Richland Board Orders Poll Books From Dayton Firm, Low Bidder.

Preparing for the August primary and November general election, the Richland county board of elections today had awarded a contract for poll books and election supplies to the Johnson Watson company, Dayton, on its low bid of $384.

Other bidders on the supplies were the Columbus Blank Book Manufacturing company which submitted a bid for $452, and the E. J. Heer Printing company, Columbus, which asked $720 for the supplies.

Clerk Philip Wolfe of the election board said bids on ballots for the August 12 primary will be opened next Monday afternoon.

Because of more competitive bidding this time, the county obtained its election supplies for considerably less than the cost two years ago, board officials said.

It is expected that the order for supplies will be delivered by mid-July so the board will have time to make up the supply kits for delivery to voting precincts in the city and county.

DANCE PUPILS, 3 TO 18, GIVE REVUE BEFORE BIG AUDIENCE

Brightly costumed and set to the tempo of Art Schreffler's band the 19th annual dance revue of the Marty Hogan Studio of Dance was staged last night at the Madison theater before a large audience of parents and friends.

Sponsored by Charles Dick Camp No. 17, Spanish-American War Veterans the revue was presented by 90 pupils ranging in age from three to 18 or older.

Joy LaVone acted as mistress of ceremonies and interpolated the program by singing two "Basin Street" blues.

Soft shoe and toe dancing, fast buck and wing numbers, a lively tap routine executed with a jumping rope, acrobatic, eccentric and modernistic dancing featured the program staged by Helen Martin and June Ford.

Individual presentations that called forth applause included, to only mention a few, little Carol Joy Wagoner's song and xylophone number, a fast buck by Robert Shively, a dude eccentric by Billy Miller, an acrobatic tap by Jack Dickson, a rhythm buck by Ward Fate and the jumping rope number by Mary Lou Dodd.

Duets, trios and other group numbers were used and the ensembles included a collegiate number that introduced the youngsters for acrobatics and a jaunty military that served as a finale.

The orchestra occupied the stage for the program and the personnel included Drummer Ted Bare, whose trial performance with Benny Goodman's orchestra at Cedar Point last week won a promise from Goodman to get Bare a position with a "name" band.

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—Out on the back lot where Old Chicago burned to Lake Michigan's edge, where Hudson's Bay traders paddled their canoes, and the sands of Suez burned, they've evacuated Dunkirk for the cameras.

Seeing them do it, just on a movie set, makes you thrill again to the magnitude of the job accomplished by the British Expeditionary Force, a year ago, in its successful retreat. The B. E. F., after all, did it without much chance for planning. The movie, "A Yank In the R. A. F.," had everything worked out in advance—to say nothing of the pleasant advantage that the bombs weren't real. And it was nice, too, that Hollywood's evacuating 600 Tommies could take time out for lunch.

ROBBIN COONS

Two cameras were on the scene. One was on the rear deck of a sailing vessel, the other on an elevated platform about 75 feet in the air, straight up. My guide and I, after being bombsprayed out of one perch close to terra firma, took our creaking old lives in our hands, and climbed a dizzy ladder, straight up, to a set rooftop on a level with the higher camera.

From there we could see a lot of things besides the Dunkirk beach, with its bomb craters, its charred army trucks, its swarms of uniformed men, its burned skeletons of planes, and miscellaneous wreckage. We could see the rough backs of other sets, the various studio buildings, the off-scene workers, a bit of the city.

It wasn't a swimming day, but several prop-men in trunks were in the water, "sweeping" off cork debris from bomb explosions, and seeing to the compressed air pipes beneath the surface which, when in operation, created lofty spraying geysers to double for bombs exploding in the water. Before the day was over most of the soldiers had been in the water, too—wading out to pile in the little boats, or once in, getting upset.

DIES AT HOME

Mrs. Ella May Glessner To Be Buried Friday.

Mrs. Ella May Glessner, 55, wife of Ross A. Glessner, died at her home, 82 West Fifth street, this morning following a lingering illness.

High Court Rules Against Pegging Of Cigaret Price

COLUMBUS—(AP)—The Ohio supreme court today held invalid contracts under the Ohio fair trade law which sought to peg the retail price of leading brands of cigarets at 16 cents per pack.

The decision which affirmed a ruling of the Lucas county appellate court held that contracts between jobbers and retailers were "illegal and void as in violation of the law against combinations in restraint of trade."

The court's pronouncement was made in a suit brought by Leo Rayess of Toledo, against the Lane Drug company to restrain the latter from selling cigarets under the agreed price of 16 cents per pack as had a majority of retailers.

The appellate court had found that the pegged price was not in fact an agreed price between jobbers and retail dealers, but one primarily established by the jobbers which the retailers were forced to accept.

DEATH CLAIMS S. J. AUNGST, 72

Former Butler Resident Succumbs At Toledo; Rites Friday.

Green Sox Lead Trimmed, Meet Braves In Twin Bill

Sport Podge by Rex Hess

The Fremont fan flock fumes with fury these fine feverish days as it protests volubly over the action last Saturday night of Manager Len Ellison of Fostoria in permitting the forfeiture of a game to Fremont, even though it added to the Green Sox lead in the Ohio State league pennant chase.

"We came to see a ball game," shout the fans in unison with Dick Behr, sports editor of the Fremont News-Messenger, who demands that Loop Prexy Joe Donnelly slap a heavy fine on Mister Ellison.

Behr points out that the second largest crowd of the Fremont season, 615 cash customers, no less, was on hand to see the Sox play and win the game, but that they didn't want the victory as a gift.

* * *

There seems to be some discrepancy in the lurid details as reported by the Fremont News Messenger and the Fostoria Daily Review.

With the score 3 to 3 in the last of the fifth, Pitcher Jack Shope, the youngster just graduated from Springfield high school, uncorked a wild pitch.

* * *

From here on it seems that we fall
To grasp with accuracy the detail.

* * *

Behr, in the Fremont paper, says the ball hit the bats lined up before the Fostoria dugout. George Sprys of Fremont, legged it from second to third, and then, when Chappie Geygan informed Umpires Karns and Haag that ground rules called for two bases on a throw hitting the bats, Sprys was waved home.

The Fostoria paper says Ellison contended the pitch hit a concrete buttress of the dugout, limiting the play to one base.

And I gather, from both papers, that the argument waxed hot and heavy, with the umpires supporting the Geygan contention.

* * *

Behr says Ellison and four Fostoria players were ordered from the field, and that when they refused to go, the umpires had no choice but to declare the game forfeited.

The Fostoria paper says Ellison led his whole team off the field and forfeited the game when the umpires refused to reverse their decision and send Sprys back to third base.

* * *

The Red Birds frothed in frantic foam,
They took their marbles and went home.

Kicked out of bed out it was all the same difference for the Birds. The game was forfeited, and the fans saw less than five innings on a night that was fine for nine.

Behr charges that the entire fiasco was a put-up job on the part of the Fostorians, that they were put-out by the seeming success of Geygan and Grover Hartley of Findlay in their brushes with the umps, and that the Birds had agreed that if Ellison were kicked out of a game they would see to it that the whole team would be kicked out.

I haven't seen the Fostoria reply to that one.

Bob Zuppke Again Facing Wolves

CHICAGO —(INS)— Trustees of the University of Illinois declined today to comment on reports that at a closed meeting in Chicago yesterday, with members of the athletic board in attendance, it was recommended that both Bob Zuppe, Illini football coach, and Athletic Director Wendell Wilson be asked to resign.

* * *

According to reports current since the close of the 1940 football season, both Zuppke and Wilson have been under fire at the State university.

Consistently, however, athletic board members as well as the university trustees have refused to comment on the reports, which have been cropping up since 1938, when Wilson led an attempt to remove Zuppke.

Jim Bagby Gets Call Of Tribe

Faces Former Red Sox Mates To Halt Slump.

BOSTON—(AP)—The Yankees and the Red Sox hot on their heels, Cleveland's Indians pulled themselves together today for another tilt with Boston, sending Jim Bagby in there to pitch.

* * *

Bagby allowed his former teammates only seven hits the last time he faced them. Making his first appearance of the season against the Tribe is Lefty Grove, out for his fifth victory of the year.

* * *

Boston bats collected eight hits off Mel Harder four off Clint Brown and six off Ken Jungels yesterday for a 13 to 2 victory. Harder was charged with the loss and the winner was young (Dick) Newsome. He let the Tribe have 10 hits but they counted for little.

The carnage brought the Sox within three games of Cleveland, as the Yanks climbed to within one game.

The New York Yankees not only are sizzling hot, they also have reached a soft spot in the schedule that may enable them to slip into first place in the American league on or before the Fourth of July, when pennant winners are supposed to become apparent.

* * *

Right now the Yanks are facing the last-place St. Louis Browns for two more games and after they finish this series will move into four contests with the almost equally feeble Philadelphia Athletics and Washington Senators.

* * *

In the same period the league-leading Cleveland Indians must tackle the robust Boston Red Sox twice and the chesty Chicago White Sox three times.

The implications of this schedule came to the fore yesterday as the Yankees slaughtered the Browns, 9-1, while the Indians were being massacred, 13-2, at Boston, reducing the margin between the two top clubs to a single game.

The Yanks looked powerful with a booming 10-hit attack that included home runs by Red Rolfe, Joe Gordon and Tom Henrich, and with Lefty Vernon Gomez pitching five-hit ball for a shut-out until the ninth.

The Washington Senators moved out of the cellar with a 6-3 triumph over the White Sox on the efective, eight-hit hurling of Emil (Dutch) Leonard. The Detroit Tigers nudged out the Athletics, 2-1, in a night game at Philadelphia with a run in the ninth inning on two singles and a fly.

* * *

In the National league the St. Louis Cardinals and Brooklyn Dodgers continued virtually neck and neck. The Cards crushed the Boston Braves, 13-1, and the Dodgers struck back with an 8-0 victory over the Pirates in a night skirmish at Pittsburgh to keep within a half-game of the leaders.

The New York Giants whipped the Chicago Cubs, 3-1, and also cost the Bruins the services of Outfielder Hank Leiber, who was beaned for the second time in his career.

The Cincinnati Reds downed the Phillies, 5-1, with Bucky Walters pitching five-hit ball and knocking in two runs with a double

College Elite Start Matches

First Round To Cut Field To 16.

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Sixty-four of the country's golfing elite teed off today in opening round matches for the 44th national intercollegiate championship, and before the sun sets on Ohio State University's course the huge field is due to be pared down to 16.

* * *

With two new record already set in the qualifier and the team title race, indications were that par was due for a beating in the "man-to-man" encounters.

* * *

Earl Stewart, Louisiana State's 19-year-old junior, ripped two strokes off par with a 68-74—142 qualifying round to take the medal with the lowest score in the tourney's history, his mark eliminating the 143 with which John Burke of Georgetown won a year ago.

Right behind him, with a record-equalling performance, was Charley Finger of Stanford, who tacked together rounds of 70 and 73 for 143, while five stars matched par for the 36 holes

Scores of 153 were forced into a playoff, 14 with that figure fighting it out for 11 match play berths, but darkness halted the extra-hole test with one place undecided. Grover Poole of Duke and Bob Drummond of Oberlin were to meet for that position early today, with the winner opposite Edmund Reinhard of Ohio State in the opening round.

* * *

The second record was set by Stanford's great four-man squad, which toured the 36 holes in 580 strokes, four over par, to win the team title and to subtract 21 strokes from the old record which Stanford set in 1938.

NEW YORK — (The Special News Service)—How'd you like to slug one out of a sand trap with a golf club worth $116 43. Mansfield Divides Two Tilts at Lima

Six-Run Rally Chases Eddie Evans But Second Game Rally Falls Short

FREMONT'S flag chasing lead in the Ohio State loop was trimmed to three games last night, Mansfield passed Findlay in the league race, but Tiffin passed Mansfield, and Fostoria climbed out of the cellar, pushing Lima back into the coal hole by one percentage point.

Thus were the circuit standings scrambled as Mansfield split a double-header at Lima, winning the nine-inning opener 8 to 4, and dropping the seven-frame afterpiece 5 to 6, while Tiffin was trimming Fremont for the second straight night, 11 to 2, and Fostoria was hammering out a double victory over Findlay 14 to 4 and 6 to 4.

Fremont comes here for an important double-header tonight, which can make or break Mansfield's chances of overtaking the Green Sox before the season's close July 2. An even split would leave the race in status quo as far as the Braves are concerned, but a double win or double loss would go far toward deciding Mansfield's flag hopes. Rudy Okleson and Jim Coleman are slated to take the mound for the Braves.

* * *

Mansfield's Braves staged a six-run rally in the eighth inning to capture the first game at Lima.

The Pandas got away to a 3 to 1 lead, scoring singletons in the third, fifth and seventh stanzas while Mansfield got one lone run in the fourth on Tim Mangan's towering home run over the right field wall.

Then came the big rally. After Morse grounded out to start the eighth, Mangan and Eddie Mutryn strolled, and the bases were filled when Shortstop Milich bobbled Graf Moore's roller. Harry Siegbert singled through second, driving in two runs and sending Moore to third. Alex Clowson squeezed Moore home, and Jim Coleman singled, plating Siegbert.

Freddy Wolpert's single sent Coleman home. Bob Ankrum was safe on Cindric's error, and Dick Morse, up for the second time, singled to score Wolpert.

This was enough for Eddie Evans, Lima's sensational strike-out king, who had breezed 11 Braves, and he was replaced by Snoddy, the former Findlay college ace. Mangan walked, but Mutryn fanned to end the scoring bee.

* * *

Lima came back with a run in the last of the eighth, but Mansfield matched that in the ninth.

Freddy Wolpert hurled his usual heady game, holding the Pandas to six hits, fanning five and issuing only two passes.

Chuck Byers, twirling the second game for the Braves, wasn't as fortunate as Wolpert in the matter of a late rally. Trailing 2-6 going into the last inning, the Braves staged their rally but it fell one run short of knotting the count.

The Braves took a two-run lead in the second inning when, with one down, Siegbert singled, Clowson walked, and Wolpert singled, scoring Siegbert. Clowson counted on Yura's balk.

But Lima came back with three in the same frame, and was never headed from there on.

Intercollegiate Rowers Decide 44th Championship.

By BILL BONI

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y.—(AP)—Given the promised break in the weather, nine eight-oared varsity crews will tie up to their stakeboats at approximately 5:45 p. m. (EST) today, ready for a four-mile race down the Hudson river to decide the 44th championship of the Intercollegiate Rowing association.

* * *

The weather is an important matter to the 72 lean, bronzed muscular young men in the splinter-thin 60-foot shells. It's a tradition based on records that fair weather means a face race—and that's what's expected today. There have been times when the wind kicked up the Hudson so that shells were swamped. Other times the crews out in the middle of the river were slowed by wind and rough water while those in the lee of the towering west bank benefited by its protection.

* * *

Some 25,000 spectators are expected to line the shore, ride the observation train or view the regatta from boats anchored near the finish.

* * *

The slight possibility that the weather may disturb "form," and persistent reports that an upset may be in the making, hasn't affected the position of Washington's mighty huskies as one of the strongest favorites in regatta history.

California, beaten by 3½ lengths last April when Washington made record time in their annual three-mile duel, is a 2-1 second choice. Rated behind them are Cornell, the East's hope; Syracuse, Columbia, Rutgers, Princeton, Massachusetts Tech and Wisconsin.

Brewers Bow To Millers

Milwaukee Loses First Tilt Under Charlie Grimm.

(By Associated Press)

Genial Charlie Grimm's long baseball career has gained him thousands of friends—and most of them probably were pulling hard for the Milwaukee Brewers to win last night in their first game under Charlie's managerial direction.

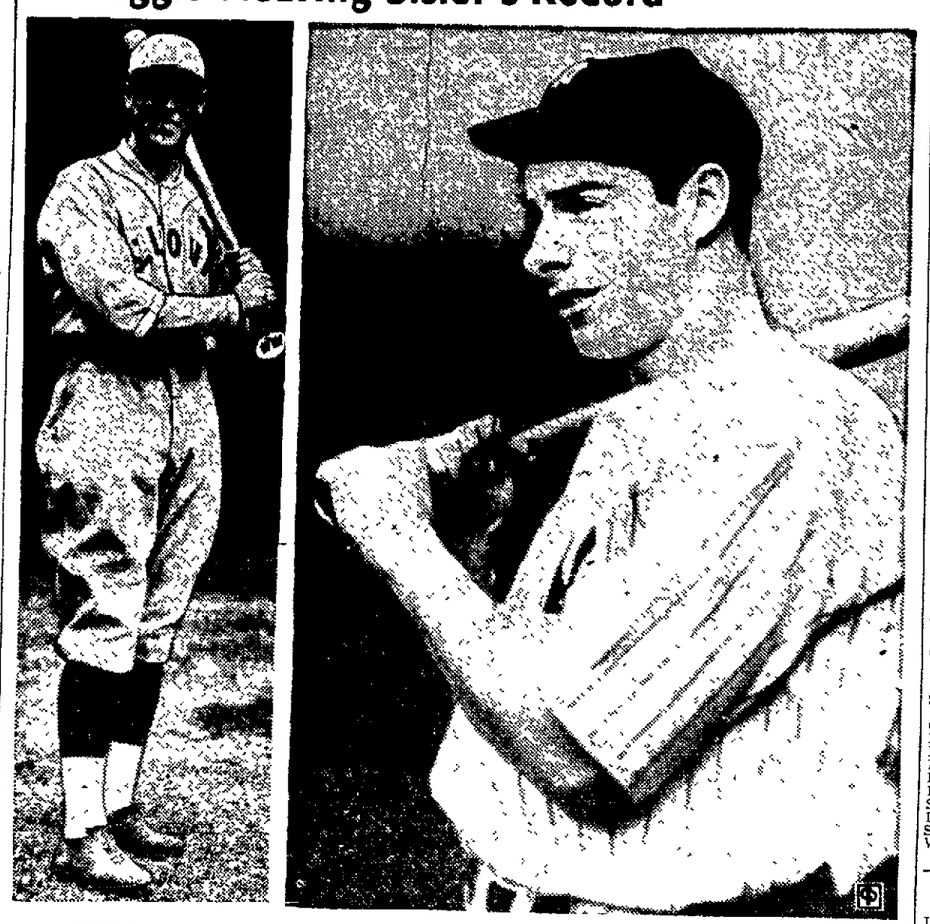
But that just wasn't to be, for the slugging Minneapolis Millers have their eyes on the American Association flag and when the Brewer-Miller game was over the Millers had tightened their hold on first place and Milwaukee had taken its 44th defeat in 63 starts this year.

The score was 8 to 4 but there was a bright side to the proceedings. Lou Novikoff, highly publicized rookie who failed to measure up with the Chicago Cubs, marked his return to the minors by banging out three hits in four trips and batting in one run.

Louisville, after winning 12 of its last 14 starts, bowed to Columbus, 8 to 7, in a battle which saw Louisville score all its runs in the first inning, when Al Mazer homered with the sacks loaded.

Kansas City jumped back into second place, (Louisville dropping to third) by defeating St. Paul, 4 to 1.

DiMaggio Nearing Sisler's Record



GEORGE SISLER JOE DIMAGGIO

NEW YORK—To one side, Rogers, and, George, kindly move over. And—while we're at it—you, too, Willie, might get ready to give the young fellow a bit of elbow room on your particular shelf in the hall of baseball fame.

* * *

At the moment the young fellow—he's one Joseph Paul DiMaggio of the San Francisco DiMaggios—already has passed one of your number in record number of consecutive games in which he has chalked up at least one safe hit. And now he's after the rest of you.

* * *

As of today the New York Yankee swatsman has hit safely in 36 consecutive games.

That beats the modern National league champion, Rogers Hornsby, who went hitless after 33 happy days—from Aug 13 to Sept. 19, 1922. Hornsby was then laboring in the colors of the St. Louis Cards.

Sisler Set Mark.

And now Joe has set sail for the mark made by the great George Sisler of the St Louis Browns and his own league, the American. George got at least one safety in 41 straight contests—July 27 to Sept. 17, 1922.

If and when Joe gets by the Sisler record he will find himself tied with the old-time record set by Bill Dahlen of the Chicago Nationals 'way back in 1894. Bill nudged the baseball safely in 42 contests.

* * *

The all-time record—modern and ancient—was set by Wee Willie Keeler, the great Baltimore Oriole who was famous for "hittin' 'em where they ain't." Willie got at least one hit in 44 consecutive games during the glorious season of 1897.

* * *

DiMaggio began his string on May 15—when will it end?

Everyone hopes not until even Keeler's record has been scratched.

Feller Has Chance to Hurl Full Season for Cleveland

CLEVELAND — (INS) — That famous young man of baseball, Bob Feller, may yet see his dream of pitching 30 to 35 wins for the Cleveland Indians realized before he is called to duty in the army. His selective service draft board revealed today that 400 unopened questionnaires must be considered before Feller's is reached.

Several weeks ago it was estimated that Bob, whose powerful right arm has accounted for 15 wins for the Indians this season, would be drafted by mid-September, an estimate that made thousands of fans, Bob's teammates and the Cleveland club owners most unhappy

Now it appears that the forecast mid-September drafting of the young country gentleman from Van Meter, Iowa, may not come to pass.

"It all depends on how quickly the board classifies the remaining 400," Mrs. Edna Bass, board clerk, said today. "For instance, one night last week the board classified 186. One night this week it classified only 25. The number classified on any given night depends on how many interviews are necessary with men who have deferment claims and employers of men who regard their employes as absolutely essential in their work."

Mrs. Bass disclosed that Feller's questionnaire has been put in a special place in the board offices to escape the practiced and prying eyes of newsmen and others, bent on learning whether Bob made any claim for deferment in his questionnaire; whether he listed his family as dependents in his questionnaire and a myriad other unanswered—to the sports public—questions.

A total of 820 questionnaires went out the same time as Feller received his. There are 617 yet to be mailed. The board has 3,831 registrants, which means that 3,214 of that number have received questionnaires, among them, Feller, whose draft number is 2857.

* * *

Figuring that the board classifies 186 one week and 25 the next it wouldn't take long for them to reach Feller's questionnaire, but some weeks the board may classify far less than 25 depending on the circumstances of the individual cases, it was pointed out That might mean that it could possibly be October before Feller gets his call to the colors.

John E. Morley, chairman of Feller's board, draft board No. 20, and his fellow members are maintaining the strictest secrecy. Meanwhile, Bob, to all outward appearances, has forgotten about the whole thing and is concentrating on bearing down on the Indians' opponents.

The other teams in the American league can attest that he's doing a real job.

Gene Mako, California Davis Cup player, encounters Marshall Chambers of Cincinnati, 1940 Ohio high school champion.

League Plays Three Games

Barnes, Westinghouse and Yunckers Win Tilts.

Three games were played in the Independent league last night as Barnes Manufacturing defeated B'nai B'rith 3-1; Westinghouse sank the Smoke Shop 14-6, and Yunckers Sports clubbed the Safety Cabs 13-10.

Bates and Williams led the Barnes nine hit attack getting two out of four. Winebrunner set B'nai B'rith down with four hits, evenly scattered, one of them by Lerner was the only homer of the game.

Westinghouse batmen pounded Gilda, Smoke Shop pitcher, for 14 hits, one of them a homer by Channell. Stinchour connected for a circuit clout for the Smoke Shop.

* * *

Boyd led the Yuncker's assault with a homer in three out of four. Judy, Mapes and J. Smollen made two hits apiece to lead the Safety Cab six bingle attack

BILL CONN DISCLOSES PLANS FOR PICTURE

NEW YORK—(INS)—Billy Conn returned to New York today seeking a return match against Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis.

The flashy Pittsburgh fighter who extended Louis to 13 rounds and came closer than any of Louis' 18 titular foes to winning the championship, also disclosed that he plans to appear in a moving picture.

THEATERS

Comedy Chase.

The chase is on at the Ohio theater where a newspaperman is in pursuit of his divorced wife as the high point in the film comedy, "Affectionately Yours," starring Dennis Morgan, Merle Oberon and Rita Hayworth. Miss Hayworth is cast as Morgan's pursuer, who begins her chase in Portugal and winds up in New York. Merle Oberon plays the erstwhile wife. Ralph Bellamy is cast as the wife's suitor, James Gleason plays Morgan's boss and Hattie MacDaniel and Butterfly McQueen do the colored comedy chores.

Novel Comedy.

Posing first as a continental gentlewoman and then as a gaudy cafe girl, Marlene Dietrich takes another fling into comedy, in the current Madison attraction, "Flame of New Orleans." In search of wealth she lands in New Orleans in 1841 and meets up with a banker played by Roland Young. She also comes in contact with a happy-go-lucky river skipper who changes her mind about money. Bruce Cabot plays his first role opposite the star as the skipper and the cast includes such well known names as Andy Devine, Mischa Auer and Eddie Quillan. "The Bride Wore Crutches," with Lynn Roberts is the companion feature.

Montgomery Film.

Robert Montgomery and Ingrid Bergman are paired in "Rage In Heaven," opening today at the Ritz. George Sanders, Lucile Watson and Oscar Homolka are in the cast. Cesar Romero as the "Cisco Kid," furnishes excitement in "Ride On Vaquero," the co-attraction with Mary Beth Hughes and Chris-Pin Martin.

Light Drama.

Eric Blore supplies the comedy touches to "Redhead," opening Thursday at the Park with Johnny Downs and June Lang in the romantic roles. Downs plays the wastrel son of a wealthy man who is given one more chance by his father after a series of front page escapades. June Lang is hired at the tune of $10,000 to help in the regeneration. Comedy mingles with drama and the picture features the Latin songstress, Zarova. "Trail of the Silver Spurs," is the second picture.

Playing Ball with 175,000 Fans

EVERYBODY LIKES BASEBALL and everybody who comes to us for cash winds up rooting for The City Loan, too, because we are always glad to "play ball" when the strikes are against you.

FOR EVERY LOAN we make this very day, each customer will very likely say "Oh, I can handle those easy payments on my loan without a hitch." And that's a good way to look at it, too. But just in case of a hitch when more time may be needed and more than just ordinary consideration required, that's when The City Loan is glad to go to bat for you. Any rookie can pitch the money you need across the plate, but it takes an old-timer, seasoned in sound financing, to help you pull out of a slump and score a personal victory over financial difficulties.

SEE HUGH HERBERT IN THE UNIVERSAL PICTURE "THE BLACK CAT"

"I've found the cola that tops them all... it's Royal Crown Cola."

HERE'S how Hugh Herbert made Royal Crown's famous cola taste-test. He drank leading colas from unlabeled cups, and then was asked to vote for the one he liked best. What was it? Royal Crown Cola—the cola that movie folks at Universal, R-K-O, and Hal Roach Studios voted best-tasting... the cola that has won 5 out of 6 certified group taste-tests in cities the country over! If you haven't yet tried Royal Crown Cola you're missing something. Get the big 5¢ bottle that holds TWO FULL GLASSES today! 6-bottle home carton—25¢.

GAINS BY STEEL, AIRCRAFTS CUT LOWER TREND

Market Transactions Slow as Operators Wait News of Russo-Nazi War.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Small gains among the aircrafts and steels countered a general, but limited, downward trend in the stock market today. Transactions were at a slow pace toward the second hour and few variations ran to more than minor fractions.

Operators were waiting definite news of the fortunes of the Russo-German campaign which, thus far, was clouded by European censorship.

Outstanding business news given consideration in boardrooms included:

A decline in the Associated Press index of electric power production last week to 143.8 from 145.2.

An upturn of 7 to 8 per cent in furniture prices and a request by the opacs that furniture makers hold down their charges;

A decline last week of 562,000 barrels in gasoline stocks despite an increase of 2.2 points to 89.8 per cent of capacity in refinery operations;

A trade estimate that freight car loading jumped 23,000 last week to 886,000, the highest week since November, 1930, and a record peak for this season.

WHEELER HITS 'ENLISTMENT'

Says 'War Mongers' Ought To Join Up In Canada With Roosevelt Blessing.

tempt to circumvent any laws of the United States."

Other members of the non-intervention bloc, however, saw in the president's remarks "additional steps toward war," and a move toward sending armed forces to Great Britain.

Rep. Woodruff (R., Mich.) said that "this is part of the program that the president has been following for over five years. After this effort to obtain volunteers for Great Britain has been exhausted, I assume the next step will be to send our armed forces over there."

Rep. Tinkham (R., Mass.) said the president's endorsement of enlistments in the British army "means the ultimate shedding of American blood on foreign soils."

"This was planned and plotted since 1937 when the president tore up the neutrality act in his Chicago speech," he added.

Wheeler warned that "the British should never be allowed to recruit in this country," but he added that he did not see in the president's remarks such a possibility "in the future at least."

At the same time, Wheeler cautioned the administration against attempting to furnish large quantities of war materials to Russia under the aid to the democracies program.

"It is entirely possible that if we give tanks, planes and other equipment to Russia that Germany may take them over in short time and use them against England," he said.

Wheeler said also that "it is highly important that we keep what little equipment we have for defense of our own country, not that any nation is going to attack us, but that there would be less likelihood of any nation thinking she could do so."

The Montanan said that "despite the war propagandists" there is little likelihood of this nation taking over Dakar, the Azores, and the Cape Verde islands unless Germany should move into Spain and Portugal.

I'VE BEEN THINKING ABOUT STEVE--THE BOY WHO WENT AWAY WITH MR. BRANNER--HE'LL BE BACK SOON, AN' IT WOULD BE NICE FOR US TO GIVE HIM A PARTY
YOU GIVE STEVE A PARTY?
YES, SIR--- MR. BRANNER LIKES HIM, SO WE SHOULD WELCOME HIM HOME-- I'LL TELL MOM
BUT I THOUGHT YOU DIDN'T LIKE HIM!
HE BUSTED YOU IN THE EYE AN' YOU SAID YOU WERE GOING TO BUST HIM IN THE EYE
SO I DO-- SO I DO-- BUT--
--LET BYGONES BE BYGONES--REMEMBER THAT MUSH STEBBINS IS FIRST A GENTLE-MAN---AFTER THE PARTY I MAY BUST HIM ONE

Bargains is RIGHT! Trade-ins from buyers of new Ford cars in a hurry to take advantage of present low Ford prices. That's why so many of them are almost like new. We are still marking them down to bargain figures. That's why you'd better grab one of them at today's price—TODAY!

LOOK INTO THIS: Because they are built better in the beginning, FORD cars stand up best. For economy, performance and dependability, shrewdest buyers are picking USED FORD cars.

TURNED DOWN

PENN YAN, N. Y.—(U.P.)—George Franklyn Hopkins of Bluff Point, who attracted nationwide notice in the medical field in 1936 as the boy with the bullet "floating" in his brain, won't get a chance to serve Uncle Sam for a while. Army examiners deferred Hopkins for limited service only when he volunteered as a selective service trainee.

Hopkins long since has recovered from the accident which put a .22 caliber bullet in his brain in 1936. It was removed by a brain specialist at Johns Hopkins hospital.

SNITE, 'BOILER KID,' PLANS TO TRY PORTABLE RESPIRATOR

(By United Press)

DAYTON—Fred B. Snite, jr., "the boiler kid," visited relatives in Dayton today and planned to try out a portable respirator which would permit him more freedom of action, possibly including walking.

Snite and his wife, the former Teresa Larkin of Dayton, arrived from Chicago last night in their special auto-trailer for an indefinite visit with her relatives.

Members of the family would not disclose details of the new respirator but Tommy Ladkin, brother of Mrs. Snite, said it might be "revolutionary" compared with present equipment.

Snite, who was stricken with paralysis in 1936, spends his reclining hours in his specially-built "iron lung." But he used a portable chest respirator with which he can sit up to eat, read and play cards. This respirator is plugged in an electricity socket thereby restricting his movement.

It was reported that the new respirator can be worn under street clothes. Snite was said to have come here to the suburban home of Mrs. Snite's aunt, Mrs. Peter Kuntz, to be free from noise and disturbances during his experiments.

He was accompanied by his wife, their nine-month-old daughter, Teresa Marie, and two attendants.

GETS ASSIGNMENT

PAULDING —(INS)— Maj. Riley F. Ennis, a native of Paulding, who is now on temporary duty as military observer at Cairo, Egypt, has been ordered to report to the American minister at Baghdad Iraq, for duty as military attache, it was learned here.

DAUGHTER SEES MOTHER SLAIN

Killing Climaxes Family Argument at Hamilton, Police Say.

HAMILTON — (AP) — Mrs. Della Wilson, 39, mother of five children, died today of bullet wounds inflicted, Detective Sergeant Herschel Haines said, by the woman's estranged husband who laughed as she fell.

Haines said the husband, Lester Wilson, an employe of the Ford Motor company, fled in his car.

The couple's 14-year-old daughter, Eva June, witnessed the shooting about 9:30 o'clock last night, Haines reported and quoted the child as saying it climaxed difficulties which started about 5 p. m.

GIVEN 'RIDE'

Police Report Man Slain In Old Gangster Style.

ST. LOUIS —(U.P.)— A man identified as Charles Bailey, 37, of Evansville, Ind., and described as a professional gambler, was found dying early today beside U. S. highway 66 about 15 miles west of here by state highway police who said he apparently had been "taken for a ride in old gangster style."

He was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Louis County hospital, where it was found he had been shot three times through the head in and near the left ear and once through the right wrist, presumably when he attempted to resist his assailants.

State troopers said he tried to talk to them but they were unable to understand him.

BANDIT RETURNS EMPTY BILLFOLDS

Grease Paint Gunman Sends Back Part of Loot From Dayton.

TROY —(INS)— A gunman who used red grease paint on his face when he held up a Troy store Monday sent back the billfolds and purses of his five victims today.

The return address listed on the package was "A. A. Friendinneed, Dayton Tourist Camp, Dayton, O."

E L Davis, store manager, and four clerks lost $32 25 in the holdup. Davis said the bandit had promised to return all belongings of his victims except their money.

MAN STABBED AS HE AIDS SISTER

Prowler Wields Knife In Fight With Canton Pair.

CANTON—(INS)—Edward Zaklukiewice, 28, was in serious condition today at South Side hospital with a knife wound in his heart received while protecting his sister, Sonia, 21, from a prowler's attack.

The girl, a dairy store clerk, was sleeping on the davenport in the Zaklukiewice living room when the intruder entered through the bathroom window.

The two men scuffled and Zaklukiewice, an employe of Armour & company, was stabbed. The girl also suffered a wound in her hand before the prowler escaped.

DOUBLE EFFORTS

Navy Officers Speed Work To End Shipyard Strike.

SAN FRANCISCO—(U.P.)—Navy officers said today they would redouble their efforts to recruit civil service workers for struck San Francisco Bay shipyards, even though only 109 workers answered the navy's call yesterday and only 33 of these were accepted.

Union leaders said the navy's plan was a "flop."

It was estimated that 1,800 machinists were needed to replace AFL and CIO strikers at 11 shipyards holding $500,000,000 in defense contracts.

"We anticipated that registration would be slow in starting but we are hopeful that it will gain momentum rapidly," a navy officer said.

DEFENSE PLANT IDLE

ELYRIA—(AP)—The Bender Body company—80 per cent of its orders listed as defense business—was idle today. Paul Cooke of Cleveland, a trustee of the company, said operations were halted when electric power and water were shut off because of the firm's inability to pay its back bills.

YOU'RE THE BOSS WHEN YOU BORROW AT GENERAL!
Tailor-Made LOANS
made to fit your requirements
You Select the KIND
You Select the TIME
You Control the COST
YES SIR, a GENERAL loan fits you like a well-tailored suit. That's because GENERAL doesn't tell you how you must borrow. You tell GENERAL how you want to borrow! And GENERAL makes your loan that way.
Your Signature Alone!
Would you prefer to borrow on your signature only? You can at GENERAL. Or you can borrow on your car, your furniture, etc. You can have all the time you like to pay — up to 20 months. You can choose the monthly payments that suit you best.
Apply By Phone
It's easy to arrange a loan at GENERAL. It's quick and confidential. Phone first, if you like, and when you come in, everything can be all set for you. Or visit our office for a helpful discussion of your money needs.
YOUR COSTS REDUCED ONE-THIRD!
A Reward from GENERAL for Paying on Time
Important cost-savings are another big feature of a GENERAL loan. For each payment you make within 5 days of due date, GENERAL refunds one-third of the interest cost to you! On a $100 loan for 20 months, for example, the cost saving is nearly enough to make two months' payments!
